

Circleville Twp. School District Seeking Transfer To City's

Pickaway County's board of education had before it Thursday a request by Circleville Township school district to be joined with the school district of the city of Circleville.

Such a transfer could have a strong bolstering effect on financial reserves of the local school system, making possible much needed expansion and modernization. Circleville Township school district, which has not operated a school of its own for about 25 years, now "pays tuition" to send its school children to the city schools.

Some observers expressed belief approval of the transfer also could provide great stimulus for Circleville's long range city expansion program. Others, however, declared this hope may be based on a misinterpretation of existing law. The land proposed for annexation north of the city is a part of the township.

In outlining purpose and procedure of the requested change, Charles Walters, president of the township's school board, stressed that his board is acting on the assumption the move is desired by the great majority of those affected in the township.

"The people apparently are ready for it," he said, "and if they are not, they should make it known. We have done, and are doing, our best to circulate a clear explanation of the steps proposed."

"We want it to be a clear-cut decision of the people of Circleville Township."

Walters explained that he, himself, in years past, was opposed to any such transfer. He added, however, he is convinced now the advantages of such a move outweigh the points which may stir objections in some quarters.

Announcement of the pending transfer came while city school officials still were mopping their brows after the opening days of the school term. Officials here have been able to solve numerous difficulties brought by the new school year, but major worries remain to haunt school administrators all over the nation.

Problems brought about by heavy enrollments, crowded schools and undermanned teaching staffs are general for the educational field. Supporters of the move to transfer Circleville Township school district to the city point out it would be a forward and timely step to ease the situation somewhat in the local area.

It was pointed out the change would not place an additional burden on the city's crowded classrooms.

In addition to Walters, the township's school board at present consists of Clerk Bob Elisea, Russ Palm and Ralph McDill. Ken Blue, recently a member of the group, has resigned to drive the school bus.

The proposed step has been in the talking stage for more than a year. Last month, to obtain a sample of current views on the question, township school officials conducted a poll of "as many people as we could contact within a reasonable length of time." The poll was intended only as a rough cross-section survey.

Results showed 211 in favor of the transfer with only 14 opposed. Ten others said they would "go with the majority." At least a few of those who voted in opposition were known to have changed their minds after the plan and its benefits were detailed.

On the basis of this poll, and assuring an opportunity for all voters in the township to add their views if they wish, the township board placed its request last week before the county board of education. This was done with the understanding that voters of the township will have the "right of remonstrance"—privilege of filing protests—if they wish to use it.

Walters explained any such objections would come after the county school board meets Oct. 7.

If county board approval is given and objectors do not total 51 percent of the township's voters in any "remonstrance" actions, officials say the township district soon

U. S. Prosperity Seen Global Key

International Monetary Fund Cites Power Of Yank Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ability of the United States to avoid depression will largely determine whether the world can achieve a free and stable exchange of goods and money, the International Monetary Fund declared today.

In its annual report to governors of the fund and the World Bank, representing 55 nations, the fund reported substantial progress toward a balance of world trade, a pattern free from recurring dollar shortages abroad.

But the balance is precarious and can be upset, the report said, if the United States and other creditor countries maintain high tariff and other trade barriers or curtail their imports.

The possibility of "even a rather small decline in American business activity" gives concern to many nations, the report said. It emphasized that the decline of U. S. military spending need not necessarily cause a business dip, and noted that the U. S. government is committed to take vigorous measures to combat any slump.

"HOWEVER, any short downturn would at once bring back the dollar problem in its full severity, despite any action taken by other countries in the meantime to strengthen their position," the report said.

Ivar Rooth, the fund's managing director, echoed the appeal made yesterday by World Bank President Eugene R. Black for a more liberal U. S. tariff policy.

If the fund's debtor countries are to achieve "convertibility," that is, make their money freely exchangeable for dollars and other currencies, they must have more ready access to markets where dollars can be earned, Rooth said.

Steady progress toward elimination of dollar deficits in the last year, Rooth went on, has brought the world to a point at which "the convertibility of currencies has become a practicable objective."

"Convertibility requires a willingness to permit considerably more free competition than is the normal practice today, not only with other exports in foreign markets, but also with imports in domestic markets."

"What the great creditor countries, and particularly the United States, do about their foreign economic policies is highly important for currency convertibility."

The fund advised European nations to look to Western Hemisphere countries other than the United States as areas in which dollars can be earned.

Canada, Colombia, Cuba, Mexico and Venezuela present no barriers to convertibility, the report said, and all have dollars available because of heavy U. S. defense buying in the Western Hemisphere.

Army Checking Story Of GI Fleeing Korea

CAMP KILMER, N. J. (AP)—A story by a young Plainfield soldier about how he fled from the Korean front, stole aboard an Army transport and hitchhiked home from the West Coast is under investigation by the Army.

The GI was identified as 21-year-old Pvt. John J. Galasso, who gave himself up here earlier this week. Galasso was being held in custody at the camp until his story could be checked and verification obtained from Korea.

Capt. Quentin Keith, public information officer at this Army post, said he did not know how long it would be before the story could be checked.

The soldier, he said, surrendered Tuesday night and told officers here that he escaped from a division stockade near the front lines in Korea eight days before the armistice.

When he reached the east Korean port of Inchon, Galasso said, he paid an unidentified person $250 to get aboard an Army transport that took him to San Francisco.

Thugs Boost Cost Of Firm's Overtime

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two employees of the Commerce Motor Sales agency voluntarily worked overtime last night, and it cost the firm $423.

Office Manager Frank Baginski and Sales Manager Paul Reynolds carry the two keys necessary to open the safe at the agency. One key won't do it.

They stayed late last night, so that when three hoodlums entered the agency with drawn guns, both keys were there. The thugs opened the safe, took the money.

ANY COMPLAINTS concerning the recent hot spell can be referred to this unidentified Air Force pilot, who is helping science to determine how much extreme heat a human being can stand. Wearing heavy woolen underwear, he sits in a simulated airplane cockpit at the University of California at Los Angeles, attempting to work out a complex flight problem with the temperature topping 160 degrees. In another experiment, Vincent Blockley, university engineer, sat in the laboratory with the thermometer at 260 degrees.

Political Scientists Condemn Presidential Election Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Political researchers declared today America's voters chose presidential nominating delegates in "intolerable confusion" last year.

Their preliminary report was prepared for the annual meeting of the American Political Science Assn., which has attracted some 2,000 political scientists from all over the world.

It was made by a group of researchers headed by Dr. Paul T. David of the Brookings Institution, who, cooperating with the APSA, studied the 1952 procedure.

The findings dealt exclusively with six classifications of primaries held in 17 states and the District of Columbia. The rest of the states name delegates by state and district conventions, with a few picking by party committees.

The Ohio ballot was called a "bewildering monstrosity," but in its inner workings, the report said, the Ohio system is similar to the streamlined California primary.

"IN BOTH states," it added, "the usual outcome in most years in both parties is the election of a regular organization slate, committed to a favorite son."

David suggested that a model might be developed for state presidential primaries based on either or variations of the California type.

David said its main feature is a combined ballot. By making a single mark, the voter in these states can express a presidential preference and also vote for a slate of delegates committed to the preferred candidate. California introduced the systems 40 years ago.

But David said the combined ballot is far from perfect.

"The Achilles Heel of all systems is the question as to which presidential possibilities, real or alleged, will be on the ballot," he said. His report pointed out that President Eisenhower's name was not carried on any streamlined ballot last year.

Reds Claim Allies Fake Missing POW Charge And Mistreat Prisoners

Escapee Says Poland Awaits Time To Rise Against Reds

SEOUL (AP)—A young Polish interpreter who bolted from Communist control and was given U. S. sanctuary said today his people some day will rise in revolt against the Reds "but now is not the time."

Jan Hajdukiewicz, 28, told a news conference the Communist rulers of his homeland could not be overthrown "without outside help" even though 99 per cent of the Polish people oppose the Red regime.

Hajdukiewicz was a civilian interpreter for Polish members of the neutral nations inspection commission supervising the Korean truce. Yesterday he asked U. S. Col. Harold T. Babb for political asylum as a plane to carry him back to North Korea warmed up at Yonmu Air Base in East Korea.

His request was granted and he was quickly taken to a place of safety.

"We had to get that guy out of there in a hell of a hurry," said one U. S. officer.

AN HOUR before the balding young Pole met newsmen in Seoul a Communist official in Pannunjom charged that he had been "kidnaped" by the U. S. Army.

The Polish delegate to the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission did not demand the return of Hajdukiewicz but said a strong protest would be lodged.

Hajdukiewicz, wearing green U. S. Army dungarees, told his news conference he made his dramatic break because "I knew it was my last chance."

He said he believes his escape will encourage others in Poland.

"The Polish government is based on fear," he said. "I didn't want to return to my country which has been subjugated by the Communist regime. I should like to go to the United States of America."

He described communism as "the subjugation of all life."

After the news conference Hajdukiewicz was accompanied by

U. S. officers to an undisclosed site, presumably in the Seoul area. He probably will be flown to Tokyo in a day or two, but Army officials had no information on this.

State Department officials in Washington said the circumstances were unusual but it is U. S. policy to grant political asylum to persons honestly at odds with communism.

THE ASYLUM is given on a temporary basis, but it can be extended and Hajdukiewicz eventually could be given opportunity to apply for U. S. citizenship.

Hajdukiewicz told newsmen he decided to flee before he arrived in Korea with his delegation.

He said that when he learned he was to return to Pannunjom and then North Korea he acted immediately because "I knew it was my last chance to stay here."

The young Pole said he was afraid of what might happen to his parents and a sister still in Poland.

Asked by newsmen if other members of the Polish delegation might want to flee from communism and seek U. S. asylum he replied:

"I suppose there are some persons who would like to remain here. They are in North Korea. I cannot say for sure."

Millions More In Aid Seen Slated For Indochina War

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Security Council was reported today to have recommended that France be given several hundred million more American dollars to back a new drive to end the bloody Indochina war.

The American funds would enable France to transfer nine battalions of troops from Europe to Indochina to lead a new campaign against the Communists.

Highly placed officials who reported this said the security council, the government's top policy-making body, decided on this move yesterday at a review of the Indochina war.

President Eisenhower is expected to approve the recommendation after discussing it with key congressional leaders to determine how to scrape up the money.

Preliminary estimates indicate the new aid program would cost some $400 million in addition to the $400 million Congress appropriated for Indochina this year.

EISENHOWER military and foreign policy leaders are reported convinced the United States has no alternative but to back the new French Indochina program if it wants to keep this strategic Southeast Asia nation out of Communist hands.

Communist-led rebels, supplied by Red China, already have conquered large areas of Indochina during an eight-year campaign and have tied up more than 350,000 French and loyal Indochinese troops.

The new French plan for winding up the conflict was put forward by the government headed by Premier Joseph Laniel. Its author is Gen. Henri Navarre, who drafted it after a visit to the battlefield.

The offer to move nine battalions of French troops to Indochina to reinforce units already there is reported to be the principal feature of this new strategy.

But the French are said to have promised also that they will try to build up the loyal Viet Nam army further so it, along with Cambodian and Laos forces, can eventually take over the burden of defending Indochina.

To increase popular native support for the Indochina conflict, the French also have pledged complete and lasting independence to Indochina.

The transcript disclosed that Jonkel introduced Stephenson to Stanley Bishop, a self-styled business "tipster" who has also told a story of profiting from stray bits of information.

Stephenson said information he received from Bishop was used in trying to get a 4 per cent fee from a California company.

In his testimony, Stephenson said he was bragging when he offered to get Navy contracts for a California manufacturer.

The witness swore he didn't actually know anybody in the Navy at the time he was offering to use his "contacts"—for a 4 per cent fee—to get business for Century Engineers, Inc., of Burbank, Calif.

In addition to the House subcommittee, the Navy, the FBI and the General Accounting Office are all investigating leaks of confidential information from the Navy on the rocket launcher bids.

The transcript of the hearing showed Stephenson got into one attempted "four percent" deal through a chance meeting in the office of Jon Jonkel, manager of

Enemy Radio Opens New Bitter Barrage Against Americans

MUNSAN (AP)—The Communists today accused the Allies of faking a list of missing U. N. soldiers, mistreating war prisoners and kidnapping a Pole who fled a truce supervisory team into American sanctuary.

The Reds unloaded this barrage as the Korean armistice moved rapidly into a new phase—the disposal of Red and Allied prisoners who refuse to return to their homelands.

The first group of 500 North Koreans moved into the buffer zone for supervision by Indian troops today.

A spokesman said they threw rocks in rage when they saw two Communist observers standing outside a barbed wire fence. The Communists backed out of range. Neither was hit.

The first group of 1,900 anti-Red Chinese was to be turned over to Indian troops tonight.

The angry Red charge of kidnapping the Pole came in a meeting of the four-nation truce supervisory commission.

SWEDISH Maj. Gen. Sven Grafstrom, commission chairman, said Communist Poland's delegate accused the Americans of kidnapping Jan Hajdukiewicz, a Polish interpreter who ducked from his inspection team into American hands as a plane warmed up to take him back to Red Korea yesterday.

Grafstrom said the Polish delegation (Continued on Page Two)

Red Corvette Blamed For 6 British Deaths

HONG KONG (AP)—A Navy source says a small Chinese Communist warship attacked a Royal Navy launch yesterday without warning in international waters outside Hong Kong, killing six.

The source said men on the launch reported the Red warship, a corvette, scored 12 hits on the launch. At least five other British seamen were wounded.

The survivors related that the lightly armed launch spotted the Red corvette and began to turn, the Communists opened fire without warning.

They said the first shot hit the bridge, wounding the skipper and killing another officer.

The second shot killed a sailor who was running to man a 40-millimeter gun in the bow. Ten other shells hit the launch before the corvette pulled away.

The crippled launch then signaled a nearby Marine police boat which towed the launch to a British anchorage and then summoned the British Destroyer Concord.

The Red corvette had quit the scene by that time and the Concord brought the wounded here.

Minister Dies

gates threatened to lodge a strong protest, probably tomorrow.

Hajdukiewicz told newsmen in Seoul he wants no more of communism, which he termed "the subjugation of all life."

The other Red denunciations were broadcast by Peiping radio, after a weathervane for official moves to come.

Peiping said 4,573 Red prisoners returned in 1949, but just ended had been hospitalized because of "physical and mental torture at the hands of the Americans."

Condemning what it termed "ghastly examples of American brutality, American torture chamber methods," Peiping said "a shocking number" of the 75,799 repatriates were suffering from various diseases. It said others were "gassed, bayoneted and stoned" during the exchange.

American officials customarily decline comment on such Red broadcasts.

IN ANOTHER attack, Peiping said the U. N. Command faked a list of 3,404 unrepatriated Allied soldiers—missing men for whom the UNC demands an accounting.

The Allied list, which includes 944 Americans, came from various sources—returning prisoners, letters and even the Reds' own broadcasts.

Peiping said the list was intended to divert "world public opinion from the fact that a large number of Korean-Chinese POWs who desire repatriation are still being forcibly detained by the Americans."

The Red radio apparently was renewing its old claim that the 14,500 Chinese and 7,800 North Koreans who refuse to return to communism are being held by Allied force—not under their own choice.

Blaze Blamed On Railroad's Weed-Burner

Fire blamed on a weed-burner operated by the Pennsylvania Railroad caused minor damage Thursday along the railroad tracks behind Ralston-Purina mill.

Circleville fire department was called at 11:30 a. m. to fight the blaze which, according to firemen, "got away from the fellows operating the weed burner." The fire spread into some of the nearby yards and gardens before it was extinguished.

The railroad had given the fire department advance notice the weed-burner would be operating in this section Thursday. The apparatus travels on the railroad tracks with burning devices to would become a part of the city school district. Opinions vary as to the effective date of the transfer, however. They range from 30 days after the county board approval to the end of the year.

Circleville Twp. School District Asks Transfer

Echoing the policy emphasized by the board president, Elsea said: "We don't want the people to think we're forcing this on them. It's something they, themselves, will have to decide."

ADDING A STRONG factor working for approval of the transfer is a state law relating to Ohio school districts which have no schools. Legal sources claim Circleville Township school district, one of these districts, would be automatically dissolved in June, 1954, regardless of any action taken during the months just ahead.

Walters called attention to the fact that the last session of the legislature reinstated the "right of remonstrance" provision in the case of a school district transfer. He said it had previously been removed from the statutes.

Man Is Sought For Rape Try

A "John Doe" warrant was on file Thursday in Circleville against a Columbus man who made an attempt to rape a young woman late Wednesday just south of the Pickaway Franklin County line.

The warrant accusing attempted rape was filed by a 19-year-old Columbus woman. Name of the man involved has not been determined.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said his office was notified at about 11:45 p. m. Wednesday that a young woman and another couple were seeking help on Borror Road, just inside Pickaway County.

The young woman told authorities she was approached earlier Wednesday in a Columbus tavern by the man, who asked to take her home. She said she thought the move was all right, since another couple was going with them.

HOWEVER, she said, the other couple left the car when her escort parked on Borror Road, and the man she was with began tearing her clothes. Her screams attracted the other woman, she said, who tried to interfere but was struck by the attacker.

The man then jumped into the car, she told authorities, and drove off, leaving her and the other couple stranded. She filed the attempted rape charge before the court of Mayor Ed Amey.

Large Turnout Expected For 'Preview' Here

A large following of Circleville High School fans—both football and band fans—is expected to attend the first annual Band Mothers' Organization "preview" program Friday night at the school football field.

An action-packed program awaits local fans during the special "preview" event, two-and-half hours of music and football.

The special show is to begin at about 7:30 p. m. Friday with a half-hour concert by the Circleville Community Band.

At 8 p. m., a color guard of Co. I, 166th Infantry, along with the high school band, will present a flag-raising ceremony.

NEXT ON the schedule is a one-half hour scrimmage session by the reserve CHS football team, coached by Dick Boyd and Red Courtney.

Circleville High School's marching band will take over at about 8:40 p. m. to make its first half-time appearance of the season.

Cheerleaders for this year's CHS sports season will be introduced to the fans at about 8:55. Cheerleaders this year are to be Kay Graef, Martha Ballou, Marsha Morgan,

Mary Jo Smith and Avanel Thomas.

Circleville's Legion drum and bugle corps will follow the cheerleader introduction by presenting its competition routine.

Varsity gridders will take over at about 9:30 p. m. to present a half-hour intra-squad scrimmage session, prepping for their season opener the following Friday against Columbus Holy Rosary. The program will be ended by about 10 p. m.

Approximately 1,500 tickets to the "preview" already have been sold, with the proceeds going into the band benefit fund of the Band Mothers' Organization.

Tickets also will be available at the gates Friday night, selling at 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

Mrs. Joseph Rooney of 950 S. Pickaway St. was returned to her home Wednesday from University hospital, Columbus, where she was treated for polio.

Mrs. Rooney entered the Columbus hospital about 15 days ago when she was stricken by the dread disease. However, her recovery has been rapid and her condition is reported good.

The Circleville housewife reportedly has no serious paralysis, although she suffers some muscular weakness. She is expected to return periodically to Children's hospital, Columbus, for therapy treatments.

World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., the American ambassador to the United Nations, was supposed to attend the American political Science Assn.'s annual meeting which opened here today. But he sent word he could not be here because of the pressure of his work at the U. N. in New York.

His work at the U. N., no matter how busy he was this week, will probably be multiplied next week. On Tuesday, the General Assembly opens its eighth regular session. The special session which it began and ended in August was to choose U. N. representatives at the Korean peace conference.

That was not a particularly pleasant session. And Andrei Vishinsky, representing Russia in the U. N., may try to make life miserable for the United States at the regular session. At any rate, the Communists may disclose at the regular session whether they really want to have a peace conference at all.

At the special session, the United States, with Lodge doing the steering, worked its way through several touchy situations to get what it wanted. What it wanted was for the U. N. to pick as representatives at the peace conference only those nations which supplied troops for the Korean fighting.

This meant the United States did not want either Russia or India on the U. N. side of the conference table. Russia not only did not supply troops for the U. N. in Korea, but was the main source of military supplies for the Chinese and North Korean Communists.

The United States argued that India, if allowed to sit on the U. N. side, might offer suggestions which would snarl up the conference. Besides, South Korea didn't want India at the conference and said so. In the end, India was not chosen.

And, in accordance with Lodge's arguments, the U. N. said Russia could not attend the conference on the U. N. team, but only if the Chinese and North Korean Communists wanted Russia on their side. Although the U. N. thus chose its representatives, the Chinese and North Koreans haven't announced theirs.

Vishinsky may try to reopen next week the whole question of U. N. representation, although it all seemed settled. Such a maneuver, while probably doomed to defeat because of the friends the United States has in the U. N., would reopen old wounds.

The Chinese and North Korean Communists may name to sit with them at the conference not only Russia but India and possibly other nations not in the U. N. The conference is supposed to open sometime in the last half of October.

The Communists, by delaying tactics, might mess up this date. It could be held later, if the Communists want it held at all. At this time there seems some uncertainty they do. But they have plenty of time before Oct. 31 to show otherwise.

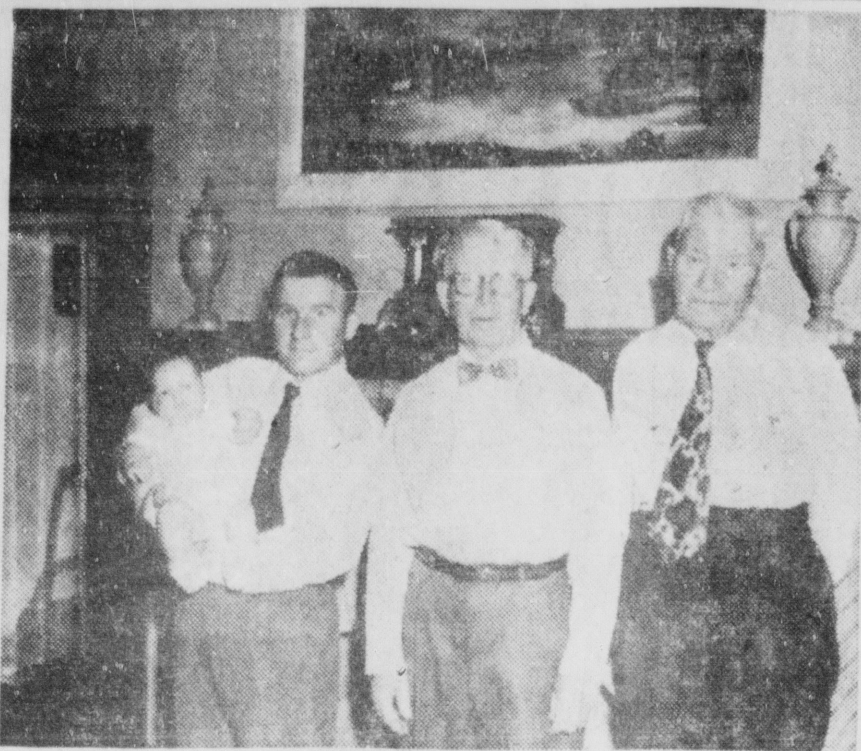

This uncertainty, however, about having a conference at all doesn't compare in depth with the skepticism that the conference, if held, will be successful in solving the problem of divided Korea.

South Korea's Syngman Rhee is determined upon unification of both parts of Korea. This would mean unification under Rhee, since the South Koreans outnumber the North Koreans. No doubt it would mean retaliation against any communists Rhee found bold enough to remain in North Korea. It is difficult to see either the North Korean or Chinese Communists agreeing to Rhee's desires. They would truly have lost the war then.

Rhee has talked of resuming the fighting if the conference looks like a Communist stall after 90 days of talking. He has between 16 and 20 divisions with which to renew the war. But South Korea, without United States help, couldn't support such a force for long.

Because Rhee needs United States help, this country should be able to put some restraint on him. Yesterday a special U. N. commission said South Korea couldn't keep such a military force—even without fighting and even with economic aid from this country—if it wanted to repair its shattered economy.

The manpower in those 16 to 20 divisions would be needed in Korea.

Hitchhiker Joins Ike On Trip East

DENVER (AP)—A hitchhiker was a board President Eisenhower's plane when the Chief Executive flew to Washington last night to attend funeral services for Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson.

Accompanying the President and his aides was John Archibold, 20, who was returning East to enter his junior year at Princeton.

The "lift" was arranged by John's mother, Mrs. Eileen Archibold, and Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower. They've been friends since childhood and Mrs. Archibold lives only a few doors from the residence of Mrs. John S. Doud, mother of Mrs. Eisenhower.

800 Inmates In Pen Riot, Start Fires

W. LLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Eight hundred state penitentiary inmates followed a half million dollar prison fire last night with cell-wrecking disorders that were quelled only after guards sprayed their quarters with tear gas three times.

The outbreak apparently was kept to a minimum by prompt action. Guards herded prisoners quickly into their cells when 14 inmates began acting up at evening meal time. Dishes were thrown and chairs smashed as a group of "young but tough" men began misbehaving.

This occurred about two hours after an unexplained fire roared through the institution's metals plant, destroying it and over one million license plates destined for use on Washington state automobiles in 1954.

Damage from the fire was estimated by Deputy Warden Al Remboldt at half a million dollars. No disorders accompanied the blaze. It started after the plant had been closed down for the evening.

Officials were prepared, however, for unrest and acted quickly

when the dining room melee broke out. Back in their cells, the men apparently became annoyed, Rembold said, because the prison's ventilation system failed when the fire burned out part of the power circuits. Soon the convicts began hurling materials and abuse out the barred doors of their cells.

Mattresses were set afire and tossed out windows which had been broken with fists or articles ripped from cell walls. Lavatories were broken from their supports and smashed. Disorders grew more violent until they reached their peak about 8 p.m. in four wings.

County TB Group Outlines New Policy, Added Service

Carl D. Bennett, president of the Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Association, announced Thursday a new policy to expand services of the group and provide the county with a broader program for tuberculosis control.

As detailed by the Association's top official, the revised program will:

- (1) Sponsor a free county-wide chest X-ray survey at least once a year, (2) provide one large diagnostic film when required, on each suspected case of tuberculosis, (3) expand the group's health education efforts, (4) promote routine general hospital admission X-rays, (5) seek to improve the reporting and recording of tuberculosis cases, (6) provide speakers and films to organizations.

"In the past, our services to the community have been severely hampered because we were paying for medical treatment for patients when such care should have been assumed by the individual or by a governmental agency," Bennett said. "We simply do not have sufficient money to pay for medical treatment. Bills for these treatments ran about $200 per month."

"IN FACT, LAST YEAR we went in the hole $1,245.64. The money we operated on in 1952 came from our 1951 Christmas Seal Sale. In 1951 we raised $3,076.44, last year we spent $4,514.76."

"For several years we could not afford to pay for an X-ray survey because all of our money was going into treatment. Pickaway County is not eligible to use the free state X-ray equipment, because neither the county nor the City of Circleville has a qualified health department."

"In order that residents of this county might have a yearly free X-ray, the Tuberculosis Association, in 1952, contracted with a commercial firm to supply this service. This survey cost over $2,000. The 1952 survey, diagnostic films and our tuberculin testing program cost the Association $3,072.89."

"In April 1953, our limited funds permitted the Association to X-ray only 946 people. In a county the size of Pickaway we should X-ray approximately 8,000 people yearly."

"The association had to decide whether we were to continue to benefit just a few county residents by providing medical treatment or serving everyone in our county by sponsoring free chest X-rays and a broader tuberculosis control program."

"The main job of our association is case finding, health education, research and rehabilitation. If we do find an active case of tuberculosis through our survey program we refer the case to the family physician and to the proper health authorities."

Maryland Plans Belated Ceremony

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (P) — With mumbled apologies Maryland is getting around to officially observing the 500th anniversary of Italian artist Leonardo da Vinci . . . one year late.

Gov. Theodore McKeldin yesterday proclaimed Oct. 11-17 as Leonardo da Vinci Appreciation Week in Maryland.

He explained that "war and related distractions" caused the overlooking of the observance in 1952.

3 ROK Officers Facing Trials

SEOUL (P) — Three high-ranking South Korean army officers, including a brigadier general, are being tried by a high military court at Taegu on charges of violating South Korea's national security law.

Details of the charges were not divulged.

One is the former chief of the Republic of Korea army intelligence bureau, Brig. Gen. Kim Chong Pyung. An informed source said Kim is accused of giving a military secret to a civilian.

He was arrested by the ROK counterintelligence corps about three months ago along with his father, Lt. Col. Kim Bong Kil, and the former chief of staff of the ROK 1st Corps, Col. Kim Wha San.

Britain Tightens Air Show Rules

FARNBOROUGH, England (P) — Britain unexpectedly threw a tight cloak of secrecy over some of her latest aviation developments. Censors ordered several entries removed from the annual air show sponsored by the Society of British Aircraft Constructors.

The government order affected a model of a jet-powered helicopter, an exhibit showing details of a jet engine and a new aviation camera. The big show got underway here Monday with many foreign observers on hand. No official representatives from Communist countries had been invited.

Lad Is Killed Saving His Dog

COLUMBIA, S. C. (P) — Eight-year-old Jimmy Bumgardner gave his life to save his puppy from being hit by a passenger train.

Jimmy snatched the dog from the Southern Railway tracks near the station here yesterday and was hit by the diesel locomotive.

Retired Too Soon

MIAMI, Okla. (P) — Arthur Hadden, who figured he retired a little too early five years ago, went back to work today on an eight-hour shift as a meat inspector. He is 65.

$307,500 Winner Back On Old Job

CHICAGO (P) — Herbert J. Idle, who won a $307,500 prize contest three weeks ago, returned to his $420 a month city job Tuesday after a vacation.

"I'm going to work like I always have," Idle told his superiors in the City Water Department, where he is a junior engineer. Idle, 55, and a city employee for 32 years, says he wants to work two or three years and then retire and devote his time to writing religious music. Income taxes may cut his net winnings in the puzzle contest to about $70,000.

TITO INTRIGUES

GREECE AND TURKEY are trying to cooperate with Dictator Tito of Yugoslavia in building defenses against Russian expansion. But they are worried by indications that Tito is cooperating only with the extreme left wing groups in Greece and Turkey. They suspect Tito has long range plans to upset the governments of those two countries and install regimes favorable to communism, non-Russian variety.

An echo of this comes from Britain, where the British Labor Party continues to criticize everything American and to call for "cooperation" with Russia. Tito is said to be in close touch with Aneurin Bevan, most pro-Russian of the British Laborites. Tito wants — and is getting — American help against Moscow interference with his own government but is not above intriguing in other countries with the apparent intention of swinging them toward his brand of communism.

Can America safely cooperate with communism in any form? Tito's red hue differs only in that it is divorced temporarily from the big shots in the Kremlin. There could be a reunion at any time, with Tito serving Russia with increased efficiency because of his favorable position with Washington.

Tito's communism is the simon pure brand—its goal a dictatorial state at war with all human freedoms.

PRICED OUT

IT IS APPARENT THAT the United States must attempt to devise a method of pricing its surplus farm production for sale abroad. Today other surplus producing countries cut under American prices and command the world market.

Egypt has just done that with cotton. Canada does it with wheat, Argentina with wheat and meat.

Foreign markets for farm production available to the U. S. are largely held through aid programs. That is, exports are subsidized or given away. Other nations sell their crops and receive money.

A wheat advisory board appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Benson has recommended a two-price system. Growers would receive 100 per cent of parity for wheat consumed domestically, roughly one-half the average crop. The remainder would find its level in the free world market. Each grower would have a quota assigning him his share of domestic production. Wheat in excess of that would be offered freely on the world market.

Conceivably, under such a program the United States would sell its surplus wheat.

There is little doubt that Congress will take a searching look at the present pro-

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

In every large body of men there are slick, tricky persons who try to find small advantages for themselves at the expense of others. In the Korean War, these jobbers of influence were correctly nicknamed "rats," although that seems to be too polite a term.

What our sons suffered at their hands in Korea is only now coming out. They spied on other American soldiers. They advised the Koreans and the Chinese Communists how to force Americans to sign statements. They squealed on Americans who spoke unfavorably of Communism and the Russians.

Now some of the rats are being protected from the natural desire of our boys to teach them a lesson. It seems altogether unnecessary. It would help the rats to understand the morals of our race if the boys were permitted to beat them up, to dunk them in the ocean, to make them salute the American flag for hours on end. A little vengeance goes a long way with a rat.

But what our military should do is to court-martial the rats under any articles they can find and then to publish the findings, including the names of these villains. We ought to have their names.

Their photographs should be published, particularly in their local communities, so that all men may know who they are and what they did to other Americans, fighting in a foreign land, 6,000 miles from home. We ought to spew them out as we do anything foul.

In the Korean War, there is another kind of indecent, disgusting, foul-smelling creature called, "A Progressive." He is an American soldier, including some officers, who were Communists when they were conscripted, or who became Communists in prison camps. Some of them became Communists because it gave them advantages; others because they believe that Russia will conquer the world and they want to be among the conquerors. Some of them have become addicts of the gospel of Karl Marx.

There are those who fall for the assumption that the Russians accomplish all this by brain-washing; that is by a propagandistic method which removes from a man's mind all his earlier knowledge and beliefs and turns him into an abnormal monster who serves the Russian without will.

I do not go along with this theory, except in isolated instances during which drugs are used to destroy the will. So far, little evidence has been adduced to justify the charge of brain-washing by drugs of our sons.

It is easier to accomplish with weak-willed creatures by a better bed, by access to women, by extra food. We need not grow too fanciful on the subject, it is sufficient that these so-called Americans have joined the enemies of our country and have done their bidding.

Some of these Progressives have chosen to remain in North Korea, in Communist China and even in Soviet Russia. Technically, they are missing persons. Sooner or later, and perhaps this has already been done, the Government of the United States should have an authentic list of American prisoners-of-war who formally stated their preference not to return to the United States.

SYNOPSIS

Philip Haver's niece, Libby, was missing from the house when Philip returned home to Connecticut, after a long absence in Mexico. Libby had left a note in her room urging the family not to worry. Promising they'd hear from her soon, her cousin Kit and Hugo Cavanaugh, an attorney, once devoted to Kit but now Libby's sworn enemy, start out to find the missing girl. They visit the meagre New York apartment of Tony Wilder, a classically handsome young man of whom Libby had become enamored. But Tony, like Libby, is nowhere to be found. The search fruitless, Kit returns to Eleanor Oaks, a bizarre and tarnished lady, who seems greatly agitated when Kit suggests that Tony and Libby may have eloped. Samuel Pedrick, a tall, macabre figure, is present as they chat. Her search fruitless, Kit returns to the Connecticut house. Hugo tells her that the wraith-like Pedrick is a figure well-known in the New York underworld.

CHAPTER EIGHT

THERE was a sudden loud commotion outside. Strange voices shouted. Kit got to her feet.

It wasn't Libby. The commotion outside had nothing to do with Libby, or rather it had, but indirectly. Philip said wearily, "It's those jackanapes."

Early in the day, in an attempt to put his worry about Libby into a separate part of his mind, Philip had shut himself up in his study and tackled the fourth chapter of his new book.

The maid had come with a message that there was a man with a lot of bridal wreath bushes, and that he wanted to plant them. Philip said, "Tell him to go away," and the maid said, "I did, and he won't."

She was right. The nurseryman was adamant. He produced a signed order from Libby, who had decided to wed him. She wanted them at the edge of the woods beyond the apple orchard. As the bushes would have to be paid for in any case, Philip had shrugged his shoulders. Whereupon a small army of men had taken over with shovels and picks.

Philip said moodily: "They were supposed to be occupied some distance away. They seemed to be in and out of the house and immediately under the windows all afternoon." He had finally hurled the cover on his typewriter and thrown the five pages he had managed to ruin into the wastebasket. He started to say, "We'll be in the poorhouse—" and didn't complete the usual formula of it, "—if I can't get my work done." It was continually coming to him as a fresh surprise that his cousin Althea's money was in the bank and he was no longer dependent on his typewriter.

Miriam had heard the men. She said in a shocked voice, "But 1,000 bridal wreath—really."

"She could have ordered 100,000 if she'd wanted them," Philip growled.

"Of course," Miriam murmured placatingly. "But Libby was always so careful."

Kit eyed her aunt coldly. Libby had run the house since she was 18 and Libby had had to be careful. In the old days she had pored over the bills with a worried frown, deploring the luxuries Miriam insisted on having. "Uncle will have a fit when he sees these."

Philip invariably did have a fit, but he was hopelessly extravagant himself and after a stern lecture on stringent economy, things would fall back into the same rut. It was Libby who had kept the house running.

Anita was getting up to go, slender and girlish in a jersey and skirt and flats, and as outwardly composed as when she had entered the house. Why had she denied knowing Pedrick when she so obviously did—or if she didn't actually know him his name certainly meant something to her? What could her connection with Pedrick be? Philip escorted her to the gate. Kit watched her with a puzzled frown as her slight figure disappeared under the maples.

George and Hugo stayed for dinner. It was a silent meal, except for Miriam, who was unexpectedly voluble.

Every time the phone rang the disappointment was newly bitter. It was 9 o'clock and then it was 10, and Libby had been gone for more than 48 hours. All three men were going to stay the night. William and Hugo in the house, George at the hotel in the village.

When she heard them discussing it, Kit closed her eyes. For what were they preparing? And yet in words nobody would admit that there was anything to be really worried about. They talked in spurts. Libby might have written a letter that had gone astray, she might have tried to phone and not been able to get through. Tony Wilder might have been deputed to get in touch with Philip and might have forgotten or not cared, or they might be on a coastwise steamer with no contact with land. It could be any one of a thousand things.

At half-past 10 Kit found herself unexpectedly alone with Hugo. George had gone to the hotel to book a room when he couldn't raise the desk, William was upstairs with Miriam, and Philip was shut up in his study. Hugo had gone for a walk. Coming in, he strolled across to where Kit sat near the fire. Standing on the hearth, he propped an elbow on the mantel and looked down at her. The glow of the fire made him larger than life. Her pulses began to hum and her breathing to quicken.

He spoke abruptly: "I'm sorry about this morning, Kit. I was pretty rough, but you do get my goat, you know. You're so darned independent, so sure you're always right."

She said: "It's all right, Hugo, I'm not worrying about it. I suppose I was stupid jumping that Oaks woman."

Hugo leaned over, took hold of her shoulders gently, and kissed her under one eye. He had been too quick for her to escape him completely. She pulled back. Her cheek felt as though it had been scalded. Hugo was erect again, tall and assured. He was smiling. There had been nothing brotherly about his kiss. She gazed past him into the flames. Skip it or tackle it, she heard herself speaking before she had made up her mind. "Forty-eight hours since Libby went. Only 48 hours. What a lightning readjustment Hugo! What am I—a consolation prize? Or are you just trying to make me happy out of the goodness of your heart?"

Hugo didn't answer at once. Hands thrust into his pockets, he stared down at her. "Kit, my sweet—"

Whatever he was going to add was left unsaid. Someone had come into the hall. Hugo moved off indifferently, lighting a cigarette. It was George who walked into the room. If he had noticed their closeness he didn't give any indication of it. He was quietly cheerful. He had got a room at the inn. Kit ought to get some rest. They would hear from Libby tomorrow, he was sure of it.

Half an hour later Kit was in bed. Her eyes were heavy and almost immediately she was asleep. At a quarter to 3 she woke abruptly. Something had roused her, some sound? Lying still in the darkness, she listened. The house was silent. Then she sat up sharply. The window that faced east was brighter than the other two. Getting out of bed, she went over to the window and looked out. Behind drawn shades the light was on in the kitchen.

Libby, Kit thought, her heart leaping. Libby had come back. She had let herself in with her key and was down there in the kitchen getting something to eat.

Throwing on a robe Kit ran down the stairs. The lower regions were in complete blackness except for a thin orange line at the bottom of the door that led into the pantry. She opened the door and went through the pantry and into the kitchen. The light in the ceiling was on. The big square room was empty.

Kit's disappointment was keen for a moment—but then, she hadn't really believed it was Libby. She looked around. Althea's money had made the kitchen a new place—it was all a gleaming white except for the red cork floor. Everything was in order. Kit's ranging glance stopped dead. Someone had put the kettle on. It began to boil, sending out little puffs of steam from the spout.

Kit watched the puffs, stupidly unable to tear her gaze loose. Tea in the middle of the night—no, at after 3 in the morning. Tea for whom? Philip? Perhaps her uncle mightn't have been able to get to sleep. She went to Philip's study. The door went in only an inch or two. There was something against it. She pushed hard; a crash and the door swung freely. Kit reached for the switch and the lamps came on. She stared at the chair lying on its side on the floor.

The chair had been placed under the knob to keep the door from opening. Like the kitchen, the study was empty. Wind ruffled her robe, blew coldly around her bare ankles. The study was empty now, but it hadn't been empty a minute earlier. The big west window was wide open from the bottom. Had someone just gone out through it?

news behind the news

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10—President Eisenhower has finally and deliberately presented a take-it-or-leave-it challenge to our friends and foes in warning Chinese and Russian Communists that the United States will wage all-out atomic war in the Far East, if they force a resumption of hostilities at next month's Korean political conference.

In view of possible consequences, it was not an easy or lightly made decision, but both daring and historic. Many carefully considered factors, economic and military, lie behind this solemn attempt to mobilize the courage and will power of the western, democratic world as mobilized by the United Nations.

and resources are accessible and vulnerable to this kind of offensive. He differs from his predecessor, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, who was a ground fighting expert. He always thought of a conflict with China in terms of a mass, mainland invasion, in which our troops would be swallowed and cut up in frustrating, guerrilla warfare, as the Japanese were for so many years.

The Radford war would be mounted almost entirely by atomic, aerial onslaughts from bases in Korea, Japan, Formosa, Okinawa, the Philippines and Indochina. It would be supplemented by a naval blockade reinforcing a complete commercial boycott.

Meanwhile, United Nations and Syngman Rhee's native forces would immobilize Mao Tse-tung's two million men on that peninsula, while the French harassed the southern provinces' farmlands from Indochina.

NO SHOWDOWN—Secret and continuing studies by the reorganized National Security Council support the bold theory that this virtual ultimatum may pound some sense into the Reds heads. Neither Russia nor China, in this body's considered opinion, want or can afford a showdown at this particular hour in history.

As long as the Reds enjoyed "sanctuary" for their assembly points, supply bases and transportation lines behind the Yalu River, they were never subjected to the full power and pressure of western arms. And yet, they suffered such fearful losses that they bled China's resources of men and materials. They will not benefit from that handicap under Radford's strategy.

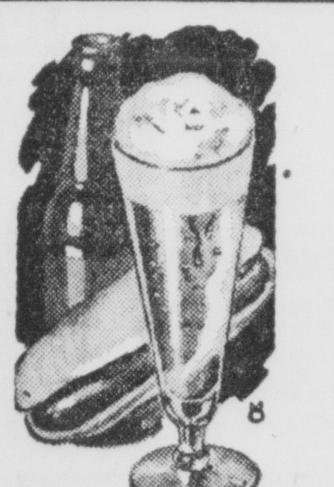

Likewise, Russia has been weakened by internal and satellite strains, according to this analysis. The unstable Malenkov regime is not yet prepared for semiglobal warfare. It is still doubtful if the new dictator commands the loyalty of the armed forces and the military hierarchy. He cannot trust the mercenary troops and leaders of Central Europe and the Balkans.

BLUNT TALK—Finally, President Eisenhower believes in preventive threats as a possible safeguard against the need of waging even preventive wars. Unlike Clausewitz, who held that the soldiers should not intervene until after the diplomats had failed to maintain peace, Ike thinks that blunt, military talk can reinforce and prevent the collapse of diplomacy.

From his wartime and postwar experience, Ike knows that, when Hitler ordered the invasion of the Rhineland, every field commander had instructions to halt the advance if the French showed signs of fight. He knows that Mussolini's comic opera army, navy and air force could have been destroyed easily, when they descended on Ethiopia, if London and Paris had not lost their nerve and preferred appeasement to a counter-attack.

He is determined not to repeat these blunders, which led directly to World Wars I and II. Regardless of the outcome, it is an experiment never tried or dared before by a major power in modern annals.

Stevison-Maxson Vows Repeated In Browns Chapel

225 Guests Attend Event

Miss Mary Lou Stevison, daughter of Mrs. Anna M. Stevison of near Clarksburg, and Donald Maxson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Maxson of Laurelville Route 1, were married Sunday in Brown's Chapel Methodist church.

The Rev. Thomas W. Taylor, pastor of the church, read the double ring ceremony at 2:30 p. m. The altar, banked with palms, ferns and greenery, was accented with arrangements of white gladioli and pompons. Lighted Cathedral tapers burned in two five-branch candelabras. More than 225 relatives and friends attended the open church wedding.

A half-hour program of pre-nuptial music was presented by Miss Ollie Ater, pianist, and Miss Elizabeth Taylor, vocalist. Miss Taylor sang "Always," "Because" and, during the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, James Stevison of near Clarksburg, wore a floor-length gown of lace and nylon over white satin. It was designed with a fitted bodice, full skirt and long sleeves tapering to points over the hands. The bodice featured a sheer nylon yoke with self-covered buttons down the back and a Peter Pan collar. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a bonnet covered with Chantilly lace and trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible adorned with a white orchid tied with white satin streamers. The only jewelry she wore was a single strand of pearls and pearl earrings, gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. William J. Stevison of Columbus, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Wanda Maxson of near Laurelville, was maid-of-honor. They wore similar floor-length gowns of taffeta styled with strapless bodices, full skirts and a shoulder stoles which were attached with pearl and rhinestone pins, gifts of the bride. Mrs. Stevison's gown was emerald green. She wore a small bandeau of green taffeta trimmed with pearls and carried a concave arrangement of pink roses. The maid of honor wore a gold gown and carried a concave bouquet of talisman roses.

Judith Ann Anderson of near Clarksburg was flower girl. She carried a basket of red rose petals tied with satin streamers. Satin kneeling pillows were used by the couple.

Ramon E. Maxson of near Laurelville served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Philip Enoch of near Circleville, Dwight Rector Jr. of Kingston, and Billy Rihl of near Laurelville.

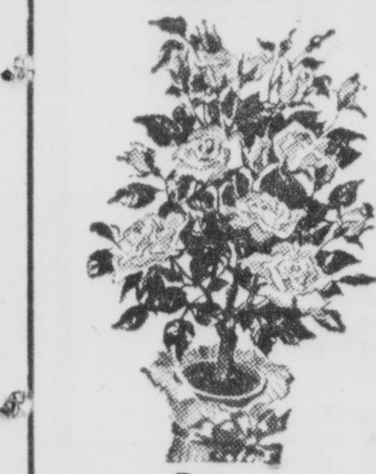

Mrs. Stevison, mother of the bride, chose for the occasion an orchid silk print dress with black accessories. Mrs. Maxson, the bridegroom's mother, was dressed in brown taffeta with beige and brown accessories. Both wore shoulder corsages of yellow rosebuds.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Anderson of near Clarksburg. The refreshment table was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple encircled with greenery and flanked by lighted tapers in two-branch crystal candelabras. Assisting in the dining room were Miss Phyllis Walters and Miss Marlene Payne of Clarksburg.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Washington D. C., Virginia Beach and other Eastern points, the bride was wearing a Navy blue linen suit with matching accessories.

The new Mrs. Maxson completed her junior year in Clarksburg high school last May. Mr. Maxson, a graduate of the Saltcreek high school in the class of 1952, is engaged in farming with his father.

World's Pains In Financial Region Studied

Some Nations Think Uncle Sam Hasn't Put Out Enough Aid Yet

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP) — The world's money troubles are up for an airing today in Washington. Uncle Sam has used up billions of dollars since the war trying to shoulder them. Other countries think he still isn't doing enough.

Fifty five nations who now belong to the World Bank and to the International Monetary Fund are meeting to discuss what can be done to ease the world's financial pains.

Other nations want the United States to lower its tariffs further so they can get more dollars in trade here.

And some would like to see this country put up several billion dollars for a fund they could use to stabilize their own currencies with the goal of making them convertible again.

Currency convertibility gets a lot of lip praise because it would open world trade, increase American markets. But it seems about as far off as ever.

What free convertibility means is: If you have British pounds and want to change them into U.S. dollars, or if you have German marks and want to change them into Argentine pesos, you can do so without any fuss and without asking any government's permission. A long time ago you could.

For years now only a very few of the world's currencies could be converted freely. Our government will let anyone change dollars into pounds, but won't let Americans change dollars into gold.

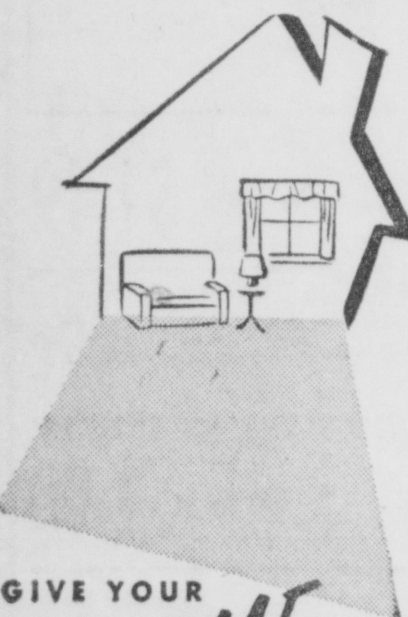

The reason England, for example, won't permit full and free convertibility of currencies is that her pound isn't very stable. The reserves of dollars and gold behind it isn't big enough yet—although growing of late—to risk letting anyone get dollars for pounds whenever he wants them.

So some are suggesting that the United States should back heavily a stabilization fund. Suggestions range from four to 35 billion dollars.

The idea is that with this to fall back on, England could risk freeing her pound. That is, if convertibility should bring on a run on her pound that would exhaust her present slim reserves, she could draw on the stabilization fund, thus allaying fears and making her pound stable again.

The Eisenhower administration is committed to the general aim of helping in the stabilization of world currencies as a fine thing for the future.

But any talk about a big stabilization fund is likely to bring demands in Congress that first the other countries halt their domestic inflation, toughen up their currencies at home, and also lower some of the barriers they have raised against American goods.

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

This will be a good weekend to buy meat, reports from the nation's food stores indicate.

Beef, pork and lamb prices generally will be lower. Sirloin steak is being trimmed by four to as much as 12 cents a pound in some stores, rib roast will be unchanged to four cents cheaper, pork chops will be down in selected localities by from four to 16 cents, and some retailers will cut leg of lamb prices by from six to 10 cents a pound. Lamb chop prices will be lower in many areas. Specials being featured by individual stores include beef liver and smoked picnic hams.

One meat specialist forecasts that while beef and pork prices will be lower this weekend, they probably will go higher next week. He said wholesale prices of beef and pork roast this week and these increases should be reflected at the retail level shortly. On the other hand, lamb prices remained down this week in wholesale markets. Prices of frying chickens will follow no set pattern this weekend. They'll be up four cents in some places and down several cents in others. Top grade large white eggs will be unchanged to as much as eight cents a dozen lower.

Nearly all fresh fruit and vegetable prices went up early this week in the wholesale markets. Produce men, running down the list of vegetables, picked beets, carrots, corn, onions, potatoes and summer squash as the best buys. They described beans, cabbage, eggplant, spinach and lettuce as moderately good buys. Cucumbers are higher, and "good ones are almost too high," one produce man commented.

Rural Fire Association Headed For Major Tussle Over Pumper

Storm clouds Thursday were gathering over a fire truck owned by the Rural Township Fire Association and now reportedly held in storage at the Jackson Township garage in Fox.

Meanwhile, in a related chapter of the turbulent story of fire protection for the rural areas, two of the townships represented by the Association have moved ahead with plans to buy new equipment of their own. Circleville and Washington Townships hope to purchase a new truck to carry on an arrangement with the city of Circleville.

Those close to the situation said the "plain talk stage" officially was opened earlier this week when Saltcreek Township board of trustees called for a meeting of the rural Association to "decide what we're going to do with our fire truck." Saltcreek was also a unit in the Association when the rural group took its fire truck away from the fire station here last May.

It marked the high point of a dispute between the association and city over costs of the rural fire calls. Looming behind the question of what the association wants to do with its truck is uncertainty over the future of the association itself. It appeared certain the group will have to be disbanded.

SALTCREEK Township officials have "requested" Harry Melvin, president of the Association, to call a meeting in the near future. However, Melvin indicated he will not act immediately on the Saltcreek move, one way or the other.

Asked if he would comply with the request, Melvin said:

"It's all up to the boys, and I'm just one of them. I don't know about a meeting. I haven't read the story in the paper yet, but I will. It's up to the boys to decide what they want to do."

Prior to the action by Saltcreek Township, Milton Manson, chairman of Circleville Township board of trustees, said a meeting of the Association was being arranged. However, he admitted Wednesday night, plans for the meeting "fell through somehow." He also confirmed that "some of the other townships" had objected to the meeting, but declined to say which ones.

Obvious conclusion was that the objections had come from Walnut, Jackson, Muhlenberg or Wayne township officials. Pickaway Township announced plans for a separate firefighting system several weeks ago, and Circleville, Washington and Saltcreek were known to favor a meeting of the Association.

Melvin is chairman of the Muhlenberg Township trustees. Scott Radcliff, chairman of Jackson Township trustees, was a strong supporter of the decision to end the association-city firefighting pact last May.

CHARLES E. Morris Jr., announcing the action taken by Saltcreek Township officials, declared: "We're determined to have a meeting of the Association called. We intend to force it, if we have to do it."

Complicated legal angles apparently cloud ownership of the association's fire truck. No legal source here was willing to say what the next step should be to determine its future, beyond a discussion of the matter in meeting.

Meanwhile, Circleville Town-

ship filed with Pickaway County board of elections a proposed levy to help purchase a new fire truck in cooperation with Washington Township. The levy, one mill for two years, will be placed before voters of Circleville Township in November.

Similar action for a levy, also one mill, was to be taken later Wednesday by Washington Township officials. Voters in the city of Circleville will not ballot on the levy. A Circleville Township fire district has been established to eliminate the city, officials said.

Manson said the proposed levy over two years would raise about $10,000 in Circleville Township and $3,800 in Washington Township, the difference being due to the gap in township valuations.

Why You Should Use Bank Money Orders

Bank Money Orders provide a dignified method of sending money safely and conveniently.

They cost considerably less than postal money orders, thus effecting a substantial saving.

Bank Money Orders are convenient to use, because you can obtain them at this bank without delay and without filling in a complicated requisition.

You receive a receipt which protects you, and we, of course, keep a permanent record of any Money Orders you purchase here.

Since these Money Orders may be cashed at any bank, anywhere, they are convenient for the individual or business house receiving them.

You will save time and money if you will come to this bank and ask for a Bank Money Order whenever you have a payment to remit to anyone, anywhere.

It's the modern, safe and convenient way of remitting money.

fect, a city fire truck will answer calls in either Circleville or Washington township. For each such call, the township that originates the call will pay $50 to the city treasury.

It was recently stressed the $50-per-call provision is intended to hold only during the life of the interim pact. "After the end of the year when we hope to have our new fire truck," Manson said, "we'll get together with the city again and draw up a new agreement."

Oklahomans Quick To 'Observe' Law

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A new law making incompatibility grounds for divorce finds Oklahomans quick to grasp the opportunity.

This is disclosed in the rash of petitions which cite the new grounds, permitting decrees without the lengthy bill of particulars common to such suits.

Why, the new divorce suits are almost friendly, courthouse officials observed.

Studio Shelving 'Flat Movies'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Twentieth Century-Fox will make no more flat-screen movies. It's changing over to exclusive production of Cinema Scope wide-screen films.

A studio spokesman said last night that personnel is being reduced from 2,500 to between 400 and 500.

Annual output of films will be cut from 80 a few years ago, to between 15 and 20, he said.

CHS Gridders Get Ready For 1st Public Appearance Friday Night

Circleville High School's 1953 Tiger football team was to have concentrated on teamwork and offensive timing Thursday in preparation for its first public appearance Friday night.

The Tigers will be seen for the first time under the lights at the CHS field Friday night in the first annual "preview" program, sponsored by the Circleville High School Band Mothers' Group.

Coach Steve Brudzinski said the varsity and reserve CHS teams each will present half-hour scrimmage programs during the "preview," with the reservists playing the first half.

Halfbacks — Joe Hill, Charles Rose, Tom Elsea, Lloyd Williams, Bill Barthelmas and John Horn.
Fullbacks — George Troutman and Tom Strawser.

All of the backfield candidates are expected to see action during the scrimmage, although Tom Elsea, injured in an early practice session at Chillicothe, may be used sparingly.

Expected to see action in the Red and Black line during the fracas are:

Ends — Jay Curry, Don Skinner, Mike Rooney and Ralph Jones.

Midget Racers Due Sunday In Washington C. H.

The fastest and most powerful racing cars ever to race in this area will be in the CSRA sanctioned midget field at Washington C. H. speedway next Sunday evening.

It will be the first time that the popular one-third mile has ever presented auto races other than the stock cars, and intense interest is attached to the initial program.

Heading the championship action Sunday evening will be the leading midget pilots of the Association.

The speedy racers will be powered by famed Offenhausers, Ferguson, Eddiebrook and converted V-8 Ford motors, all specially designed to race on the tracks under a half-mile in length. Sunday's races, will attract upward of 25 entrants.

A total of seven events, climaxed by a 25-lap feature race, is the program for the initial midget speed sortie at the Washington C. H. Speedway. Trials are set for 7:30 p. m. with the initial race due at 8:30 p. m. happened before. It is perhaps true that in World War I and World War II some Americans were missing because they snacked up with native women and got lost. In the Korean War, it is altogether different. These are prisoners-of-war who are asked to express a choice: Do you want to go home to your own country or do you refuse to go home?

And they made their choice. They prefer to remain in a slave civilization rather than to return to their native land, to their families, to their own.

It is almost impossible to believe that such persons exist in the American society; yet, we have witnessed the Hollywood Ten, the Trial of the Eleven in Foley Square, the Trial of the Second String Communist leaders, the Alger Hiss case, the Julius and Ethel Rosenberg case, etc.

We know that even here at home, we have both rats and Progressives and just perverted traitors. And what we have at home, we have in our Army.

$10,350 In Donations Have Been Received By Hospital

Berger Gift Fund Program Being Set Up

Unsolicited Gifts Designated For New Wing Here

Spontaneous contributions totaling $10,350 have been received by the board of governors of Berger hospital for the hospital's new medical and surgical wing, now under construction.

These unsolicited gifts from persons of the community who stepped forward to lend a helping hand were for furnishing of rooms and purchase of equipment for the hospital's new wing.

Donations which have been accepted to date by the hospital board were contributed by the following persons:

To completely furnish four private bedrooms—Mr. A. E. Fissell, in memory of Mrs. Florence Fissell, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Hosler, Dr. and Mrs. V. D. Kerns and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Noecker.

To completely furnish five semi-private rooms — Mrs. Helen Black Anderson, in memory of Miss Anna E. Black, family of the late Dr. Harry D. Jackson and Mary Jackson in their honor, Berger hospital General Guild, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Valentine and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Replogle.

To completely furnish a four-bed ward—Dr. Clinton G. Stewart, in memory of the late Dr. Dudley V. Courtwright.

To completely furnish the office of the administrator of the hospital—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adkins.

These contributions were unsolicited donations to be used for designated projects. Because of the growing interest of individuals, industries, firms, churches, clubs, lodges and societies, the board of governors of Berger hospital have established a Berger Hospital Gift Fund committee to handle these and other donations.

Richard Simkins, Harry W. Heffner and Durward D. Dowden are the members of this committee and will serve in the capacity of agents for the donors.

The board of governors of Berger hospital hope that within a few days they will receive donations from several local industries. The local officials of leading national firms have shown keen interest and cooperation in the Berger hospital enlargement project and have confirmed reports that their companies expect to assist financially.

The receipt of these donations will, in no way, interfere with the donation program to be sponsored by Berger hospital Guilds, which is to be launched Oct. 1.

DETAILS OF this campaign will be announced in the near future by Mrs. John W. Eshelman, chairman of the Berger hospital General Guild, and will afford everyone an opportunity to contribute to one of our most worthy local community projects, that is, to make Berger hospital one of the most complete, modern hospitals in Ohio.

Dowden, chairman of the Berger hospital promotion committee, said that, without the sponsorship of the Berger hospital Guilds, a donation campaign of any size could not be made possible. The details of such a program could not be handled by the board of governors of Berger hospital in addition to their present duties of directing the operating policies of the present hospital and supervising the building and equipping of the new medical and surgical wing.

Newsmen Get Fines In Fuss With Judge

CLEVELAND —Common Pleas Judge Joseph H. Silbert late yesterday convicted three members of the Cleveland Press' editorial staff of contempt of court for a picture taken in the judge's courtroom. Their attorneys announced they would appeal.

City Editor Louis Clifford was fined $500 and costs and ordered held in the custody of the sheriff for one hour. Reporter Sam Gaiamo was fined $100 and costs. Photographer James Thomas was fined $100, suspended.

However, the sentences were stayed after Atty. Tom J. Edwards general counsel for the Scripps-Howard Newspapers, announced he would file a notice of appeal. The newsmen were released on bond.

At issue was the taking of a photograph of Former Probate Judge Nelson J. Brewer as he was arraigned last Aug. 20 on a charge of embezzlement. Brewer pleaded innocent.

Judge Silbert contended he had told reporter Gaiamo on the preceding afternoon no pictures would be allowed. He said he informed Gaiamo and another reporter this was because of a section in the Canon of Ethics of the American Bar Association, stating that courtroom pictures should not be permitted.

Edwards argued Silbert's order

had no legal effect because it was not a part of the Court Journal, and that "a court can speak only through a journal."

He also contended that there was no obstruction of justice in a "mere click of the camera." He said the Canon of Ethics was not binding on the press, and asserted that the judges of the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court, as a group, had discussed the canon at a meeting earlier in the year, but had failed to adopt it.

Circleville Twp. School District Seeking Transfer To City's

Pickaway County's board of education had before it Thursday a request by Circleville Township school district to be joined with the school district of the city of Circleville.

Such a transfer could have a strong bolstering effect on financial reserves of the local school system, making possible much needed expansion and modernization. Circleville Township school district, which has not operated a school of its own for about 25 years, now "pays tuition" to send its school children to the city schools.

Some observers expressed belief approval of the transfer also could provide great stimulus for Circleville's long range city expansion program. Others, however, declared this hope may be based on a misinterpretation of existing law. The land proposed for annexation north of the city is a part of the township.

In outlining purpose and procedure of the requested change, Charles Walters, president of the township's school board, stressed that his board is acting on the assumption the move is desired by the great majority of those affected in the township.

"The people apparently are ready for it," he said, "and if they are not, they should make it known. We have done, and are doing, our best to circulate a clear explanation of the steps proposed."

"We want it to be a clear-cut decision of the people of Circleville Township," Walters explained that he, himself, in years past, was opposed to any such transfer. He added, however, he is convinced now the advantages of such a move outweigh the points which may stir objections in some quarters.

Announcement of the pending transfer came while city school officials still were mopping their brows after the opening days of the school term. Officials here have been able to solve numerous difficulties brought by the new school year, but major worries remain to haunt school administrators all over the nation.

Problems brought about by heavy enrollments, crowded schools and undermanned teaching staffs are general for the educational field. Supporters of the move to transfer Circleville Township's school district to the city point out it would be a forward and timely step to ease the situation somewhat in the local area.

It was pointed out the change would not place an additional burden on the city's crowded classrooms.

In addition to Walters, the township's school board at present consists of Clerk Bob Elsea, Russ Palm and Ralph McDill. Ken Blue, recently a member of the group, has resigned to drive the school bus.

The proposed step has been in the talking stage for more than a year. Last month, to obtain a sample of current views on the question, township school officials conducted a poll of "as many people as we could contact within a reasonable length of time." The poll was intended only as a rough cross-section survey.

Results showed 211 in favor of the transfer with only 14 opposed. Ten others said they would "go with the majority." At least a few of those who voted in opposition were known to have changed their minds after the plan and its benefits were detailed.

On the basis of this poll, and assuring an opportunity for all voters in the township to add their views if they wish, the township board placed its request last week before the county board of education. This was done with the understanding that voters of the township will have the "right of remonstrance"—privilege of filing protests—if they wish to use it.

Walters explained any such objections would come after the county school board meets Oct. 7. If county board approval is given and objectors do not total 51 percent of the township's voters in any "remonstrance" actions, officials say the township district soon

International Monetary Fund Cites Power Of Yank Economy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ability of the United States to avoid depression will largely determine whether the world can achieve a free and stable exchange of goods and money, the International Monetary Fund declared today.

In its annual report to governors of the fund and the World Bank, representing 55 nations, the fund reported substantial progress toward a balance of world trade, a pattern free from recurring dollar shortages abroad.

But the balance is precarious and can be upset, the report said, if the United States and other creditor countries maintain high tariff and other trade barriers or curtail their imports.

The possibility of "even a rather small decline in American business activity" gives concern to many nations, the report said. It emphasized that the decline of U. S. military spending need not necessarily cause a business dip, and noted that the U. S. government is committed to take vigorous measures to combat any slump.

"HOWEVER, any short downturn would at once bring back the dollar problem in its full severity, despite any action taken by other countries in the meantime to strengthen their position," the report said.

Ivar Rooth, the fund's managing director, echoed the appeal made yesterday by World Bank President Eugene R. Black for a more liberal U. S. tariff policy.

If the fund's debtor countries are to achieve "convertibility," that is, make their money freely exchangeable for dollars and other currencies, they must have more ready access to markets where dollars can be earned, Rooth said.

Steady progress toward elimination of dollar deficits in the last year, Rooth went on, has brought the world to a point at which "the convertibility of currencies has become a practicable objective."

"Convertibility requires a willingness to permit considerably more free competition than is the normal practice today, not only with other exports in foreign markets, but also with imports in domestic markets."

"What the great creditor countries, and particularly the United States, do about their foreign economic policies is highly important for currency convertibility."

The fund advised European nations to look to Western Hemisphere countries other than the United States as areas in which dollars can be earned.

Canada, Colombia, Cuba, Mexico and Venezuela present no barriers to convertibility, the report said, and all have dollars available because of heavy U. S. defense buying in the Western Hemisphere.

Final Tribute Paid To Vinson

Eisenhower, Truman Both Attend Rites

WASHINGTON (AP)—The humble and the great offered a last mournful tribute today to Fred M. Vinson who was born of modest origin and died as chief justice of the U. S.

From the national capital and the country over they assembled for funeral services in the great choir of Washington Episcopal Cathedral.

Special places were reserved for President Eisenhower, former President Truman, Supreme Court justices, cabinet members, diplomats. There was space, too, for just plain people come to honor a distinguished American.

Vinson died of a heart attack Tuesday morning. He was 63.

For nearly three decades this friendly man had served his country. As a congressman from Kentucky, as secretary of the Treasury and in other high positions in the executive branch of the government, and finally for seven years as chief justice.

TOMORROW he will be buried in Louisa, Ky., the little town where he was born, in a cemetery on the bluffs of the big Sandy River.

Truman counted Vinson as a trusted adviser. He put him in his cabinet and then on the Supreme Court bench. Eisenhower, too, esteemed the jurist as a personal friend, even though Vinson was a lifelong Democrat.

And today President and former President were drawn together for the first time since the change of administrations for a final measure of homage to a man they saluted as a great citizen.

In the midst of the parting solemnities, Washington wondered about a successor.

Gov. Earl Warren of California? Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York? Both are Republicans. Associate Justice Harold Burton, former senator from Ohio and only Republican now on the bench? Eisenhower offered no clues.

Cyprus Area Hit By Earthquake

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—An earthquake rocked the Paphos district of this British island off the southern coast of Turkey today. Police said about 30 persons were killed and 100 injured in various villages.

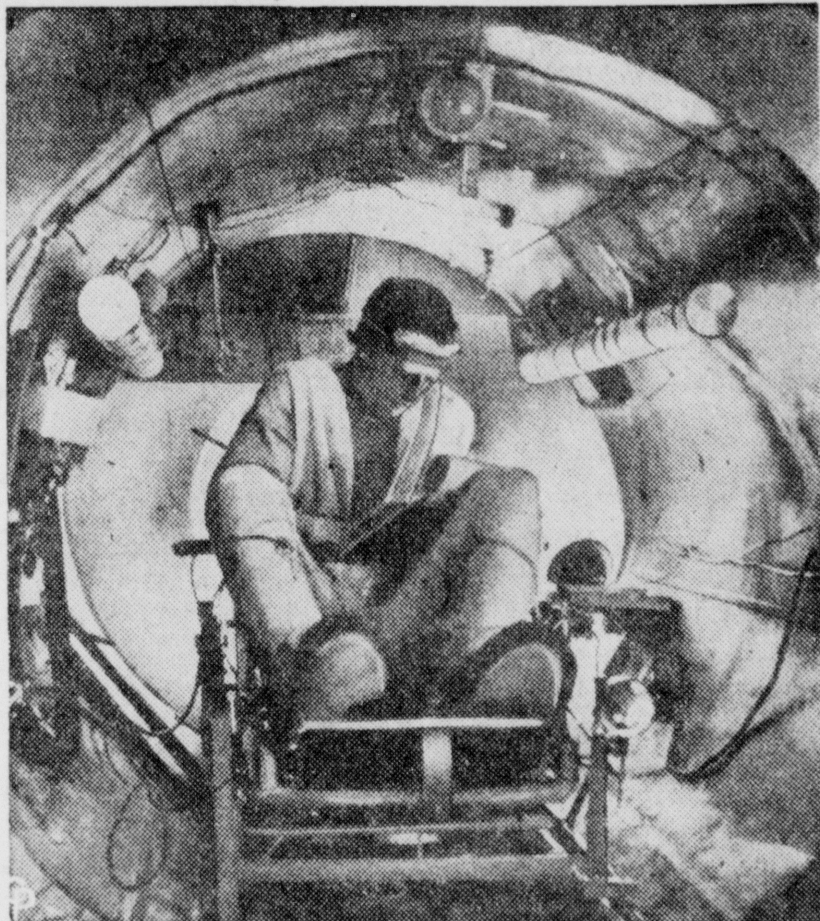

Southeast of Cyprus, Haifa and other points in northern Israel felt earth tremors on this first day of the Jewish New Year but no casualties were reported. Police said houses in the Paphos district were damaged extensively. Doctors were rushed to the area from Nicosia.

Thugs Boost Cost Of Firm's Overtime

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two employees of the Commerce Motor Sales agency voluntarily worked overtime last night, and it cost the firm $423.

Office Manager Frank Baginski and Sales Manager Paul Reynolds carry the two keys necessary to open the safe at the agency. One key won't do it.

They stayed late last night, so that when three hoodlums entered the agency with drawn guns, both keys were there. The thugs opened the safe, took the money,

Political Scientists Condemn Presidential Election Setup

WASHINGTON (AP)—Political researchers declared today America's voters chose presidential nominating delegates in "intolerable confusion" last year.

Their preliminary report was prepared for the annual meeting of the American Political Science Assn., which has attracted some 2,000 political scientists from all over the world.

It was made by a group of researchers headed by Dr. Paul T. David of the Brookings Institution, who, cooperating with the APSA, studied the 1952 procedure.

The findings dealt exclusively with six classifications of primaries held in 17 states and the District of Columbia. The rest of the states name delegates by state and district conventions, with a few picking by party committees.

The Ohio ballot was called a "bewildering monstrosity," but in its inner workings, the report said, the Ohio system is similar to the streamlined California primary.

"IN BOTH states," it added, "the usual outcome in most years in both parties is the election of a regular organization slate, committed to a favorite son."

David suggested that a model might be developed for state presidential primaries based on either variations of the California type.

David said its main feature is a combined ballot. By making a single mark, the voter in these states can express a presidential preference and also vote for a slate of delegates committed to the preferred candidate. California introduced the systems 40 years ago.

But David said the combined ballot is far from perfect.

"The Achilles Heel of all systems is the question as to which presidential possibilities, real or alleged, will be on the ballot," he said. His report pointed out that President Eisenhower's name was not carried on any streamlined ballot last year.

15 Firemen Felled Battling Blaze

COLUMBUS (AP)—Fifteen firemen were overcome by smoke last night in a three-hour blaze at a record shop and restaurant in suburban Clintonville.

Ten of the firemen were taken to hospitals and five more were treated at the scene. The fire department said today none was in serious condition. No estimate of the damage was available.

The soldier, he said, surrendered Tuesday night and told officers here that he escaped from a division stockade near the front lines in Korea eight days before the armistice.

When he reached the east Korean port of Inchon, Galasso said, he paid an unidentified person $250 to get aboard an Army transport that took him to San Francisco.

'5 Percenter' Scandal Is Replaced By New '4 Percent' Deal In Capital

WASHINGTON (AP)—During the Truman administration protesters shook angry fingers at influence peddlers known as "five percenters." Today, they are known as "four percenters."

Warren L. Stephenson, who served as executive secretary of President Eisenhower's inaugural committee, is the central figure in the latest congressional probe of influence peddling.

He says he once represented the Edwards Mfg. Co. of Cincinnati.

Stephenson told investigators he worked for Edwards at a salary of about $1,000 a month for about 10 months in either 1949 or 1950.

This was shown in testimony made public by the House subcommittee of defense activities, headed by Rep. Hess (R-Ohio). The subcommittee is probing the activities of "four percenters" who allegedly tried to swing government contracts to firms for a four per cent fee.

Stephenson told the subcommittee he did business with the Navy here for a Mr. Myers, whom he recalled as president or vice president of Edwards.

At another point, he was asked if he had communicated with anyone concerning any proposed procurement by any department of the government.

Stephenson replied he talked to "Mr. Sam Richmond, former vice president of Edwards Mfg. and now in Ripley, Ohio, with the Aircraft Steel Co."

"What did you talk to him about?" asked Charles Courtney,

Reds Claim Allies Fake Missing POW Charge And Mistreat Prisoners

Escapee Says Poland Awaits Time To Rise Against Reds

SEOUL (AP)—A young Polish interpreter who bolted from Communist control and was given U. S. sanctuary said today his people some day will rise in revolt against the Reds "but now is not the time."

Jan Hajdukiewicz, 28, told a news conference the Communist rulers of his homeland could not be overthrown "without outside help" even though 99 per cent of the Polish people oppose the Red regime.

Hajdukiewicz was a civilian interpreter for Polish members of the neutral nations inspection commission supervising the Korean truce. Yesterday he asked U. S. Col. Harold T. Babb for political asylum as a plane to carry him back to North Korea warmed up at the Bagram Air Base in East Korea.

His request was granted and he was quickly taken to a place of safety.

"We had to get that guy out of there in a hell of a hurry," said one U. S. officer.

AN HOUR before the balding young Pole met newsmen in Seoul a Communist official in Panmunjom charged that he had been "kidnaped" by the U. S. Army.

The Polish delegate to the Neutral Nations Supervisory Commission did not demand the return of Hajdukiewicz but said a strong protest would be lodged.

Hajdukiewicz, wearing green U. S. Army dungarees, told his news conference he made his dramatic break because "I knew it was my last chance."

He said he believes his escape will encourage others in Poland.

"The Polish government is based on fear," he said. "I didn't want to return to my country which has been subjugated by the Communist regime. I should like to go to the United States of America."

He described communism as "the subjugation of all life."

After the news conference Hajdukiewicz was accompanied by U. S. Army officers to an undisclosed site, presumably in the Seoul area. He probably will be flown to Tokyo in a day or two, but Army officials had no information on this.

State Department officials in Washington said the circumstances were unusual but it is U. S. policy to grant political asylum to persons honestly at odds with communism.

THE ASYLUM is given on a temporary basis, but it can be extended and Hajdukiewicz eventually could be given opportunity to apply for U. S. citizenship.

Hajdukiewicz told newsmen he decided to flee before he arrived in Korea with his delegation.

He said that when he learned he was to return to Panmunjom and then North Korea he acted immediately because "I knew it was my last chance to stay here."

The young Pole said he was afraid of what might happen to his parents and a sister still in Poland.

Asked by newsmen if other members of the Polish delegation might want to flee from communism and seek U. S. asylum he replied:

"I suppose there are some persons who would like to remain here. They are in North Korea. I cannot say for sure."

Millions More In Aid Seen Slated For Indochina War

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Security Council was reported today to have recommended that France be given several hundred million more American dollars to back a new drive to end the bloody Indochina war.

The American funds would enable France to transfer nine battalions of troops from Europe to Indochina to lead a new campaign against the Communists.

Highly placed officials who reported this said the security council, the government's top policy-making body, decided on this move yesterday at a review of the Indochina war.

President Eisenhower is expected to approve the recommendation after discussing it with key congressional leaders to determine how to scrape up the money.

Preliminary estimates indicate the new aid program would cost some $400 million in addition to the $400 million Congress appropriated for Indochina this year.

EISENHOWER military and foreign policy leaders are reported convinced the United States has no alternative but to back the new French Indochina program if it wants to keep this strategic Southeast Asia nation out of Communist hands.

Communist-led rebels, supplied by Red China, already have conquered large areas of Indochina during an eight-year campaign and have tied up more than 350,000 French and loyal Indochinese troops.

The new French plan for winding up the conflict was put forward by the government headed by Premier Joseph Laniel. Its author is Gen. Henri Navarre, who drafted it after a visit to the battlefield.

The offer to move nine battalions of French troops to Indochina to reinforce units already there is reported to be the principal feature of this new strategy.

But the French are said to have promised also that they will try to build up the loyal Viet Nam army further so it, along with Cambodian and Laos forces, can eventually take over the burden of defending Indochina.

To increase popular native support for the Indochina conflict, the French also have pledged complete and lasting independence to Indochina.

In his testimony, Stephenson said he was bragging when he offered to get Navy contracts for a California manufacturer.

The witness swore he didn't actually know anybody in the Navy at the time he was offering to use his "contacts"—for a 4 per cent fee—to get business for Century Engineers, Inc., of Burbank, Calif.

79 Ohio Women Due At GOP Meet

COLUMBUS (AP)—A delegation of 79 Ohio Republican women will take part in a GOP conference in Chicago Sept. 18-19. About 1,500 representatives from 18 Midwest and Southern states are expected to attend.

Heading the Ohio group will be Mrs. Ruth Fox, Elyria, chairman, and Mrs. Katharine Kennedy Brown of Dayton, president of the Ohio Federation of Women's Republican Organizations.

Hospital Plane Brings 48 Home

TRAVIS, Calif. (AP)—A C-97 hospital plane carrying 48 former prisoners of war arrived last night from Hawaii.

The men were bedded down here and were to be flown out today. Ten litter patients will go to hospitals nearest their homes. The others will go straight home.

The arrivals included Cpl. Beecher Mefford of Lebanon, Ohio.

Taft Fund Set Up

FLEMINGTON, N. J. (AP)—A New Jersey memorial cancer fund for the late Sen. Robert A. Taft has been set up here co-sponsored by former Congressman Fred A. Hartley of nearby Pittstown and Edgar H. Wilson, a Flemington industrial consultant.

At "I talked about grain bins for the Agriculture Department," Stephenson acknowledged he also was "indiscreet" in spreading information about bids for building rocket-launchers for the Navy.

"I know right from wrong," Stephenson said. "I might say I was indiscreet about it."

In addition to the House subcommittee, the Navy, the FBI and the General Accounting Office are all investigating leaks of confidential information from the Navy on the rocket launcher bids.

The transcript of the hearing showed Stephenson got into one attempted "four percenter" deal through a chance meeting in the office of Jon Jonkel, manager of the 1950 campaign of Sen. Butler (R-Md.).

The transcript disclosed that Jonkel introduced Stephenson to Stanley Bishop, a self-styled business "tipster" who has also told a story of profiting from stray bits of information.

Stephenson said information he received from Bishop was used in trying to get a 4 per cent fee from a California company.

In his testimony, Stephenson said he was bragging when he offered to get Navy contracts for a California manufacturer.

The witness swore he didn't actually know anybody in the Navy at the time he was offering to use his "contacts"—for a 4 per cent fee—to get business for Century Engineers, Inc., of Burbank, Calif.

Enemy Radio Opens New Bitter Barrage Against Americans

MUNSAN (AP)—The Communists today accused the Allies of faking a list of missing U. N. soldiers, mistreating war prisoners and kidnapping a Pole who fled a truce supervisory team into American sanctuary.

The Reds unloaded this barrage as the Korean armistice moved rapidly into a new phase—the disposal of Red and Allied prisoners who refuse to return to their homelands.

The first group of 500 North Koreans moved into the buffer zone for supervision by Indian troops today.

A spokesman said they threw rocks in rage when they saw two Communist observers standing outside a barbed wire fence. The Communists backed out of range. Neither was hit.

The first group of 1,900 anti-Red Chinese was to be turned over to Indian troops tonight.

The angry Red charge of kidnapping the Pole came in a meeting of the four-nation truce supervisory commission.

SWEDISH Maj. Gen. Sven Grafstrom, commission chairman, said Communist Poland's delegate accused the Americans of kidnapping Jan Hajdukiewicz, a Polish interpreter who ducked from his inspection team into American hands as a plane warmed up to take him back to Red Korea yesterday.

Grafstrom said the Polish delegation

Red Corvette Blamed For 6 British Deaths

HONG KONG (AP)—A Navy source says a small Chinese Communist warship attacked a Royal Navy launch yesterday without warning in international waters outside Hong Kong, killing six.

The source said men on the launch reported the Red warship, a corvette, scored 12 hits on the launch. At least five other British seamen were wounded.

The survivors related that after the lightly armed launch spotted the Red corvette and began to turn, the Communists opened fire without warning.

They said the first shot hit the bridge, wounding the skipper and killing another officer.

The second shot killed a sailor who was running to man a 40-millimeter gun in the bow. Ten other shells hit the launch before the corvette pulled away.

The crippled launch then signaled a nearby Marine police boat which towed the launch to a British anchorage and then summoned the British Destroyer Concord.

The Red corvette had quit the scene by that time and the Concord brought the wounded here.

gate threatened to lodge a strong protest, probably tomorrow.

Hajdukiewicz told newsmen in Seoul he wants no more of communism, which he termed "the subjugation of all life."

The other Red denunciations were broadcast by Peiping radio, after a weather-vane for official moves to come.

Peiping said 4,579 Red prisoners returned in the exchange just ended have been hospitalized because of "physical and mental torture at the hands of the Americans."

Condemning what it termed "ghastly examples of American brutality, American torture chamber methods," Peiping said "a shocking number" of the 75,799 repatriates were suffering from various diseases. It said others were "gassed, bayoneted and stoned" during the exchange.

American officials customarily decline comment on such Red broadcasts.

IN ANOTHER attack, Peiping said the U. N. Command faked a list of 3,404 unrepatriated Allied soldiers—missing men for whom the UNC demands an accounting.

The Allied list, which includes 944 Americans, came from various sources—returning prisoners, letters and even the Reds' own broadcasts.

Peiping said the list was intended to divert "world public opinion from the fact that a large number of Korean-Chinese POWs who desire repatriation are still being forcibly detained by the Americans."

The Red radio apparently was renewing its old claim that the 14,500 Chinese and 7,800 North Koreans who refuse to return to communism are being held by Allied force—not under their own choice.

Blaze Blamed On Railroad's Weed-Burner

Fire blamed on a weed-burner operated by the Pennsylvania Railroad caused minor damage Thursday along the railroad tracks behind Ralston-Purina mill.

Circleville fire department was called at 11:30 a. m. to fight the blaze which, according to firemen, "got away from the fellows operating the weed burner." The fire spread into some of the nearby yards and gardens before it was extinguished.

The railroad had given the fire department advance notice the weed-burner would be operating in this section Thursday. The apparatus travels on the railroad tracks with burning devices to would become a part of the city school district. Opinions vary as to the effective date of the transfer, however. They range from 30 days after the county board approval to the end of the year.

Echoing the policy emphasized by the board president, Elsea said: "We don't want the people to think we're forcing this on them. It's something they, themselves, will have to decide."

ADDING A STRONG factor working for approval of the transfer is a state law relating to Ohio school districts which have no schools. Legal sources claim Circleville Township school district, one of these districts, would be automatically dissolved in June, 1954, regardless of any action taken during the months just ahead.

Walters called attention to the fact that the last session of the legislature reinstated the "right of remonstrance" provision in the case of a school district transfer. He said it had previously been removed from the statutes.

Man Is Sought For Rape Try

A "John Doe" warrant was on file Thursday in Circleville against a Columbus man who made an attempt to rape a young woman late Wednesday just south of the Pickaway Franklin County line.

The warrant accusing attempted rape was filed by a 19-year-old Columbus woman. Name of the man involved has not been determined.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff said his office was notified at about 11:45 p. m. Wednesday that a young woman and another couple were seeking help on Borror Road, just inside Pickaway County.

The young woman told authorities she was approached earlier Wednesday in a Columbus tavern by the man, who asked to take her home. She said she thought the move was all right, since another couple was going with them.

HOWEVER, she said, the other couple left the car when her escort parked on Borror Road, and the man she was with began tearing her clothes. Her screams attracted the other woman, she said, who tried to interfere but was struck by the attacker.

The man then jumped into the car, she told authorities, and drove off, leaving her and the other couple stranded. She filed the attempted rape charge before the court of Mayor Ed Amey.

Large Turnout Expected For 'Preview' Here

A large following of Circleville High School fans—both football and band fans—is expected to attend the first annual Band Mothers' Organization "preview" program Friday night at the school football field.

An action-packed program awaits local fans during the special "preview" event, two-and-a-half hours of music and football.

The special show is to begin at about 7:30 p. m. Friday with a half-hour concert by the Circleville Community Band.

At 8 p. m., a color guard of Co. I, 166th Infantry, along with the high school band, will present a flag-raising ceremony.

NEXT ON the schedule is a one-half hour scrimmage session by the reserve CHS football team, coached by Dick Boyd and Red Courtney.

Circleville High School's marching band will take over at about 8:40 p. m. to make its first half-time appearance of the season.

Cheerleaders for this year's CHS sports season will be introduced to the fans at about 8:55. Cheerleaders this year are to be Kay Graef, Martha Ballou, Marsha Morgan,

Mary Jo Smith and Avanel Thomas.

Circleville's Legion drum and bugle corps will follow the cheerleader introduction by presenting its competition routine.

Varsity gridders will take over at about 9:30 p. m. to present a half-hour intra-squad scrimmage session, prepping for their season opener the following Friday against Columbus Holy Rosary. The program will be ended by about 10 p. m.

Approximately 1,500 tickets to the "preview" already have been sold, with the proceeds going into the band benefit fund of the Band Mothers' Organization.

Tickets also will be available at the gates Friday night, selling at 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students.

Mrs. Joe Rooney Returns To Home

Mrs. Joseph Rooney of 950 S. Pickaway St. was returned to her home Wednesday from University hospital, Columbus, where she was treated for polio.

Mrs. Rooney entered the Columbus hospital about 15 days ago when she was stricken by the dread disease. However, her recovery has been rapid and her condition is reported good.

The Circleville housewife reportedly has no serious paralysis, although she suffers some muscular weakness. She is expected to return periodically to Children's hospital, Columbus, for therapy treatments.

Good lighting does make a difference

When lighting fades so do grades! Yet many parents have the mistaken idea that the way to improve grades is to keep their child's nose to the grindstone. Children, however, don't study with their noses . . . they use their eyes! (Keeping at it is well and good but good lighting is even more important!)

Good lighting is easy and inexpensive to achieve. So don't take chances! Make sure your child has the proper study lighting, which will provide glare-free . . . softly diffused light. (Homework will be easier and it will light the way to better grades.)

Call our home lighting advisors (AD-5131, Ext-250) today. They will be glad to help you. This is a FREE SERVICE . . . without charge or obligation.

World Today

By James Marlow
Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., the American ambassador to the United Nations, was supposed to attend the American political Science Assn.'s annual meeting which opened here today. But he sent word he could not be here because of the pressure of his work at the U. N. in New York.

His work at the U. N., no matter how busy he was this week, will probably be multiplied next week. On Tuesday, the General Assembly opens its eighth regular session. The special session which it began and ended in August was to choose U. N. representatives at the Korean peace conference.

That was not a particularly pleasant session. And Andrei Vishinsky, representing Russia in the U. N., may try to make life miserable for the United States at the regular session. At any rate, the Communists may disclose at the regular session whether they really want to have a peace conference at all.

At the special session, the United States, with Lodge doing the steering, worked its way through several tough situations to get what it wanted. What it wanted was for the U. N. to pick as representatives at the peace conference only those nations which supplied troops for the Korean fighting.

This meant the United States did not want either Russia or India on the U. N. side of the conference table. Russia not only did not supply troops for the U. N. in Korea, but was the main source of military supplies for the Chinese and North Korean Communists.

The United States argued that India, if allowed to sit on the U. N. side, might offer suggestions which would snarl up the conference. Besides, South Korea didn't want India at the conference and said so. In the end, India was not chosen.

And, in accordance with Lodge's arguments, the U. N. said Russia could not attend the conference on the U. N. team, but only if the Chinese and North Korean Communists wanted Russia on their side. Although the U. N. thus chose its representatives, the Chinese and North Koreans haven't announced theirs.

Vishinsky may try to reopen next week the whole question of U. N. representation, although it all seemed settled. Such a maneuver, while probably doomed to defeat because of the friends the United States has in the U. N., would reopen old wounds.

The Chinese and North Korean Communists may name to sit with them at the conference not only Russia but India and possibly other nations not in the U. N. The conference is supposed to open sometime in the last half of October.

The Communists, by delaying tactics, might mess up this date. It could be held later, if the Communists want it held at all. At this time there seems some uncertainty they do. But they have plenty of time before Oct. 31 to show otherwise.

This uncertainty, however, about having a conference at all doesn't compare in depth with the skepticism that the conference, if held, will be successful in solving the problem of divided Korea.

South Korea's Syngman Rhee is determined upon unification of both parts of Korea. This would mean unification under Rhee, since the South Koreans outnumber the North Koreans. No doubt it would mean retaliation against any communists Rhee found bold enough to remain in North Korea. It is difficult to see either the North Korean or Chinese Communists agreeing to Rhee's desires. They would truly have lost the war then.

Rhee has talked of resuming the fighting if the conference looks like a Communist stall after 90 days of talking. He has between 16 and 20 divisions with which to renew the war. But South Korea, without United States help, couldn't support such a force for long.

Because Rhee needs United States help, this country should be able to put some restraint on him. Yesterday a special U. N. commission said South Korea couldn't keep such a military force—even without fighting and even without economic aid from this country—if it wanted to repair its shattered economy.

The manpower in those 16 to 20 divisions would be needed in Ko-

Accompanying the President and his aides was John Archibald, 20, who was returning East to enter his junior year at Princeton.

The "lift" was arranged by John's mother, Mrs. Eileen Archibald, and Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower. They've been friends since childhood and Mrs. Archibald lives only a few doors from the residence of Mrs. John S. Doud, mother of Mrs. Eisenhower.

800 Inmates In Pen Riot, Start Fires

W. LLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)—Eight hundred state penitentiary inmates followed a half million dollar prison fire last night with cell-wrecking disorders that were quelled only after guards sprayed their quarters with tear gas three times.

The outbreak apparently was kept to a minimum by prompt action. Guards herded prisoners quickly into their cells when 14 inmates began acting up at evening meal time. Dishes were thrown and chairs smashed as a group of "young but tough" men began misbehaving.

This occurred about two hours after an unexplained fire roared through the institution's metals plant, destroying it and over one million license plates destined for use on Washington state automobiles in 1954.

Damage from the fire was estimated by Deputy Warden Al Remboldt at half a million dollars. No disorders accompanied the blaze. It started after the plant had been closed down for the evening.

Officials were prepared, however, for unrest and acted quickly

when the dining room melee broke out. Back in their cells, the men apparently became annoyed, Rembold said, because the prison's ventilation system failed when the fire burned out part of the power circuits.

Soon the convicts began hurling materials and abuse out the barred doors of their cells.

Mattresses were set afire and tossed out windows which had been broken with fists or articles ripped from cell walls. Lavatories were broken from their supports and smashed. Disorders grew more violent until they reached their peak about 8 p.m. in four wings.

Gulping Gin Adds To Hilarity

GALLUP, N. M. (AP)—There was a hilarious aftermath to the welcome Medal of Honor winner Hiroshi Miyamura received in Gallup yesterday.

Refreshments at the Miyamura home consisted of gin mixed with water.

Several guests, thirsty from the long parade and broiling sun, gulped the mixture down hurriedly—thinking it was ice water.

The gasping and choking just added to the general uproar—mixed with a lot of laughter.

County TB Group Outlines New Policy, Added Service

Carl D. Bennett, president of the Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Association, announced Thursday a new policy to expand services of the group and provide the county with a broader program for tuberculosis control.

As detailed by the Association's top official, the revised program will:

- (1) Sponsor a free county-wide chest X-ray survey at least once a year,
- (2) provide one large diagnostic film when required, on each suspected case of tuberculosis,
- (3) expand the group's health education efforts,
- (4) promote routine general hospital admission X-rays,
- (5) seek to improve the reporting and recording of tuberculosis cases,
- (6) provide speakers and films to organizations.

"In the past, our services to the community have been severely hampered because we were paying for medical treatment for patients when such care should have been assumed by the individual or by a governmental agency," Bennett said. "We simply do not have sufficient money to pay for medical treatment. Bills for these treatments ran about $200 per month."

"IN FACT, LAST YEAR we went in the hole $1,245.64. The money we operated on in 1952 came from our 1951 Christmas Seal Sale. In 1951 we raised $3,076.44, last year we spent $4,514.76."

"For several years we could not afford to pay for an X-ray survey because all of our money was going into treatment. Pickaway County is not eligible to use the free state X-ray equipment, because neither the county nor the City of Circleville has a qualified health department."

"In order that residents of this county might have a yearly free X-ray, the Tuberculosis Association, in 1952, contracted with a commercial firm to supply this service. This survey cost over $2,000. The 1952 survey, diagnostic films and our tuberculin testing program cost the Association $3,072.89."

"In April 1953, our limited funds permitted the Association to X-ray only 946 people. In a county the size of Pickaway we should X-ray approximately 8,000 people yearly."

"The association had to decide whether we were to continue to benefit just a few county residents by providing medical treatment or serving everyone in our county by sponsoring free chest X-rays and a broader tuberculosis control program."

"The main job of our association is case finding, health education, research and rehabilitation. If we do find an active case of tuberculosis through our survey program we refer the case to the family physician and to the proper health authorities."

Next Of Kin Of 944 GIs Given Hope

WASHINGTON — A faint spark of hope went out from the Pentagon today to the next of kin of 944 American servicemen whose whereabouts are unknown since their reported capture by the Reds in Korea.

The Defense Department list will be made public beginning tomorrow, 24 hours after telegrams are dispatched to the relatives of the men missing and unaccounted for.

The list includes 610 from the Army, 312 from the Air Force, 19 from the Marines and 3 from the Navy. The Communists were asked yesterday to account for them.

The list of missing men was based on Communist propaganda reports, the word of their exchanged buddies, private letters and other sources.

The Communists have not reported that any of the men escaped or died in captivity.

The Pentagon said yesterday the next of kin of the 944 Americans are being sent this message:

"The secretary of the (appropriate department) has asked me to inform you that the name of (the missing serviceman) was included in a list of servicemen who, there is reason to believe, were at one time in Communist custody but for whom no accounting has yet been made. This list has been presented to the Communists with an urgent request for such an accounting."

"All possible efforts are being made to obtain information regarding (the serviceman's name) and in the event any is received, it will be furnished to you promptly without request by you."

3 ROK Officers Facing Trials

SEOUL — Three high-ranking South Korean army officers, including a brigadier general, are being tried by a high military court at Taegu on charges of violating South Korea's national security law.

Details of the charges were not divulged.

One is the former chief of the Republic of Korea army intelligence bureau, Brig. Gen. Kim Chong Pyung. An informed source said Kim is accused of giving a military secret to a civilian.

He was arrested by the ROK counterintelligence corps about three months ago along with his father, Lt. Col. Kim Bong Kil, and the former chief of staff of the ROK 1st Corps, Col. Kim Wha San.

Britain Tightens Air Show Rules

FARNBOROUGH, England — Britain unexpectedly threw a tight cloak of secrecy over some of her latest aviation developments. Censors ordered several entries removed from the annual air show sponsored by the Society of British Aircraft Constructors.

The government order affected a model of a jet-powered helicopter, an exhibit showing details of a jet engine and a new aviation camera. The big show got underway here Monday with many foreign observers on hand. No official representatives from Communist countries had been invited.

TITO INTRIGUES

GREECE AND TURKEY are trying to cooperate with Dictator Tito of Yugoslavia in building defenses against Russian expansion. But they are worried by indications that Tito is cooperating only with the extreme left wing groups in Greece and Turkey. They suspect Tito has long range plans to upset the governments of those two countries and install regimes favorable to communism, non-Russian variety.

An echo of this comes from Britain, where the British Labor Party continues to criticize everything American and to call for "cooperation" with Russia. Tito is said to be in close touch with Aneurin Bevan, most pro-Russian of the British Laborites. Tito wants — and is getting — American help against Moscow interference with his own government but is not above intriguing in other countries with the apparent intention of swinging them toward his brand of communism.

Can America safely cooperate with communism in any form? Tito's red hue differs only in that it is divorced temporarily from the big shots in the Kremlin. There could be a reunion at any time, with Tito serving Russia with increased efficiency because of his favorable position with Washington.

Tito's communism is the simon pure brand—its goal a dictatorial state at war with all human freedoms.

PRICED OUT

IT IS APPARENT THAT the United States must attempt to devise a method of pricing its surplus farm production for sale abroad. Today other surplus producing countries cut under American prices and command the world market.

Egypt has just done that with cotton. Canada does it with wheat, Argentina with wheat and meat.

Foreign markets for farm production available to the U. S. are largely held through aid programs. That is, exports are subsidized or given away. Other nations sell their crops and receive money.

A wheat advisory board appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Benson has recommended a two-price system. Growers would receive 100 per cent of parity for wheat consumed domestically, roughly one-half the average crop. The remainder would find its level in the free world market. Each grower would have a quota assigning him his share of domestic production. Wheat in excess of that would be offered freely on the world market.

Conceivably, under such a program the United States would sell its surplus wheat. There is little doubt that Congress will take a searching look at the present pro-

These Days

In every large body of men there are slick, tricky persons who try to find small advantages for themselves at the expense of others. In the Korean War, these jobbers of influence were correctly nicknamed "rats," although that seems to be too polite a term.

What our sons suffered at their hands in Korea is only now coming out. They spied on other American soldiers. They advised the Koreans and the Chinese Communists how to force Americans to sign statements. They squealed on Americans who spoke unfavorably of Communism and the Russians.

Now some of the rats are being protected from the natural desire of our boys to teach them a lesson. It seems altogether unnecessary. It would help the rats to understand the morals of our race if the boys were permitted to beat them up, to dunk them in the ocean, to make them salute the American flag for hours on end. A little vengeance goes a long way with a rat.

But what our military should do is to court-martial the rats under any articles they can find and then to publish the findings, including the names of these villains. We ought to have their names.

Their photographs should be published, particularly in their local communities, so that all men may know who they are and what they did to other Americans, fighting in a foreign land, 6,000 miles from home. We ought to spew them out as we do anything foul.

In the Korean War, there is another kind of indecent, disgusting, foul-smelling creature called, "A Progressive." He is an American soldier, including some officers, who were Communists when they were conscripted, or who became Communists in prison camps. Some of them became Communists because it gave them advantages; others because they believe that Russia will conquer the world and they want to be among the conquerors. Some of them have become addicts of the gospel of Karl Marx.

There are those who fall for the assumption that the Russians accomplish all this by brain-washing; that is by a propagandistic method which removes from a man's mind all his earlier knowledge and beliefs and turns him into an abnormal monster who serves the Russian without will.

I do not go along with this theory, except in isolated instances during which drugs are used to destroy the will. So far, little evidence has been adduced to justify the charge of brain-washing by drugs of our sons.

It is easier to accomplish with weak-willed creatures by a better bed, by access to women, by extra food. We need not grow too fanciful on the subject, it is sufficient that these so-called Americans have joined the enemies of our country and have done their bidding.

Some of these Progressives have chosen to remain in North Korea, in Communist China and even in Soviet Russia. Technically, they are missing persons. Sooner or later, and perhaps this has already been done, the Government of the United States should have an authentic list of American prisoners-of-war who formally stated their preference not to return to the United States.

gram of storing surpluses at the taxpayer's expense. But farmers have little fear that the solons will approve any substitute in an election year that would give the farmers less money.

SYNOPSIS
Philip Haven's niece, Libby, was missing from the house when Philip returned home to Connecticut after a long absence in Mexico. Libby had left a note in her room urging the family not to worry, promising they'd hear from her soon. Her cousin Kit and Hugo Cavanaugh, an attorney once devoted to Kit but now Libby's sworn enemy, started out to find the missing girl. They visit the meagre New York apartment of Tony Wilder, a classically handsome young man of whom Libby had become enamored. But Tony, like Libby, is nowhere to be found. They proceed to the uptown home of Eleanor Oaks, a bizarre and fanatical lady who seems greatly agitated when Kit suggests that Tony and Libby may have eloped. Samuel Pedrick, a tall machine figure, is present as they chat. Her search fruitless, Kit returns to the Connecticut house. Hugo tells her that the wraith-like Pedrick is a figure well-known in the New York underworld.

CHAPTER EIGHT
THERE was a sudden loud commotion outside. Strange voices shouted. Kit got to her feet.

It wasn't Libby. The commotion outside had nothing to do with Libby, or rather it had, but indirectly. Philip said wearily, "It's those jackanapes."

Early in the day, in an attempt to put his worry about Libby into a separate part of his mind, Philip had shut himself up in his study and tackled the fourth chapter of his new book.

The maid had come with a message that there was a man with a lot of bridal wreath bushes, and that he wanted to plant them. Philip said, "Tell him to go away," and the maid said, "I did, and he won't."

She was right. The nurseryman was adamant. He produced a signed order from Libby, who had decided where they would go. She wanted them at the edge of the woods beyond the apple orchard. As the bushes would have to be paid for in any case, Philip had shrugged his shoulders. Whereupon a small army of men had taken over with shovels and picks.

Philip said moodily: "They were supposed to be occupied some distance away. He produced a signed order from Libby, who had decided where they would go. Stevison-Maxson Vows Repeated In Browns Chapel

225 Guests Attend Event

Miss Mary Lou Stevison, daughter of Mrs. Anna M. Stevison of near Clarksburg, and Donald Maxson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Maxson of Laurelville Route 1, were married Sunday in Brown's Chapel Methodist church.

The Rev. Thomas W. Taylor, pastor of the church, read the double ring ceremony at 2:30 p. m. The altar, banked with palms, ferns and greenery, was accented with arrangements of white gladioli and pompons. Lighted Cathedral tapers burned in two five-branch candelabras. More than 225 relatives and friends attended the open church wedding.

A half-hour program of pre-nuptial music was presented by Miss Ollie Ater, pianist, and Miss Elizabeth Taylor, vocalist. Miss Taylor sang "Always," "Because" and, during the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, James Stevison of near Clarksburg, wore a floor-length gown of lace and nylon over white satin. It was designed with a fitted bodice, full skirt and long sleeves tapering to points over the hands. The bodice featured a sheer nylon yoke with self-covered buttons down the back and a Peter Pan collar. Her fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a bonnet covered with Chantilly lace and trimmed with orange blossoms. She carried a white Bible adorned with a white orchid tied with white satin streamers. The only jewelry she wore was a single strand of pearls and pearl earrings, gift of the bridegroom.

Mrs. William J. Stevison of Columbus, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Wanda Maxson of near Laurelville, was maid-of-honor. They wore similar floor-length gowns of taffeta styled with strapless bodices, full skirts and shoulder stoles which were attached with pearl and rhinestone pins, gifts of the bride. Mrs. Stevison's gown was emerald green. She wore a small bandeau of green taffeta trimmed with pearls and carried a concave arrangement of pink roses. The maid of honor wore a gold gown and carried a concave bouquet of talisman roses.

Judith Ann Anderson of near Clarksburg was flower girl. She carried a basket of red rose petals tied with satin streamers. Satin bows marked the pews and satin kneeling pillows were used by the couple.

Ramon E. Maxson of near Laurelville served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Philip Enoch of near Circleville, Dwight Rector Jr. of Kingston, and Billy Rihl of near Laurelville.

Mrs. Stevison, mother of the bride, chose for the occasion an orchid silk print dress with black accessories. Mrs. Maxson, the bridegroom's mother, was dressed in brown taffeta with beige and brown accessories. Both wore shoulder corsages of yellow rosebuds.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Anderson of near Clarksburg. The refreshment table was centered with a two-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple encircled with greenery and flanked by lighted tapers in two-branch crystal candelabras. Assisting in the dining room were Miss Phyllis Walters and Miss Marlene Payne of Clarksburg.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Washington D. C., Virginia Beach and other Eastern points, the bride was wearing a Navy blue linen suit with matching accessories.

The new Mrs. Maxson completed her junior year in Clarksburg high school last May. Mr. Maxson, a graduate of the Salter Creek high school in the class of 1952, is engaged in farming with his father.

"WARD" SKINNER DEMANDS AN INVESTIGATION!

Mr. Duncan Hines makes a nice profit from his books telling tourists where to find the best cafes and hotels.

But "Ward" Skinner wishes Mr. Hines would send a scout around to report on grocery stores.

"Ward" Skinner is as proud of his store as Papa Dionne is about his quintuplets, but he's prejudiced. Maybe Duncan Hines might find some other store around Circleville that gives even better service than Ward's Market.

But that's a risk "Ward" doesn't mind taking. He doesn't care who comes to Ward's Market to compare his bargains and quality. He likes to be investigated!

World's Pains In Financial Region Studied

Some Nations Think Uncle Sam Hasn't Put Out Enough Aid Yet

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The world's money troubles are up for an airing today in Washington. Uncle Sam has used up billions of dollars since the war trying to shoulder them. Other countries think he still isn't doing enough.

Fifty five nations who now belong to the World Bank and to the International Monetary Fund are meeting to discuss what can be done to ease the world's financial pains.

Other nations want the United States to lower its tariffs further so they can get more dollars in trade here.

And some would like to see this country put up several billion dollars for a fund they could use to stabilize their own currencies with the goal of making them convertible again.

Currency convertibility gets a lot of lip praise because it would open world trade, increase American markets. But it seems about as far off as ever.

What free convertibility means is: If you have British pounds and want to change them into U.S. dollars, or if you have German marks and want to change them into Argentine pesos, you can do so without any fuss and without asking any government's permission. A long time ago you could.

For years now only a very few of the world's currencies could be converted freely. Our government will let anyone change dollars into pounds, but won't let Americans change dollars into gold.

The reason England, for example, won't permit full and free convertibility of currencies is that her pound isn't very stable. The reserves of dollars and gold behind it isn't big enough yet—although growing of late—to risk letting anyone get dollars for pounds whenever he wants them.

So some are suggesting that the United States should back heavily a stabilization fund. Suggestions range from four to 35 billion dollars.

The idea is that with this to fall back on, England could risk freeing her pound. That is, if convertibility should bring on a run on her pound that would exhaust her present slim reserves, she could draw on the stabilization fund, thus allaying fears and making her pound stable again.

The Eisenhower administration is committed to the general aim of helping in the stabilization of world currencies as a fine thing for the future.

But any talk about a big stabilization fund is likely to bring demands in Congress that first the other countries halt their domestic inflation, toughen up their currencies at home, and also lower some of the barriers they have raised against American goods.

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

This will be a good weekend to buy meat, reports from the nation's food stores indicate.

Beef, pork and lamb prices generally will be lower. Sirloin steak is being trimmed by four to as much as 12 cents a pound in some stores, rib roast will be unchanged to four cents cheaper, pork chops will be down in selected localities by from four to 16 cents, and some retailers will cut leg of lamb prices by from six to 10 cents a pound.

Lamb chop prices will be lower in many areas. Specials being featured by individual stores include beef liver and smoked picnic hams.

One meat specialist forecasts that while beef and pork prices will be lower this weekend, they probably will go higher next week. He said wholesale prices of beef and pork roast this week and these increases should be reflected at the retail level shortly. On the other hand, lamb prices remained down this week in wholesale markets. Prices of frying chickens will follow no set pattern this weekend. They'll be up four cents in some places and down several cents in others. Top grade large white eggs will be unchanged to as much as eight cents a dozen lower.

Nearly all fresh fruit and vegetable prices went up early this week in the wholesale markets. Produce men, running down the list of vegetables, picked beets, carrots, corn, onions, potatoes and summer squash as the best buys. They described beans, cabbage, eggplant, spinach and lettuce as moderately good buys. Cucumbers are higher, and "good ones are almost too high," one produce man commented.

Rural Fire Association Headed For Major Tussle Over Pumper

Storm clouds Thursday were gathering over a fire truck owned by the Rural Township Fire Association and now reportedly held in storage at the Jackson Township garage in Fox.

Meanwhile, in a related chapter of the turbulent story of fire protection for the rural areas, two of the townships represented by the Association have moved ahead with plans to buy new equipment of their own. Circleville and Washington Townships hope to purchase a new truck to carry on an arrangement with the city of Circleville.

Those close to the situation said the "plain talk stage" officially was opened earlier this week when Saltcreek Township board of trustees called for a meeting of the rural Association to "decide what we're going to do with our fire truck." Saltcreek was also a unit in the Association when the rural group took its fire truck away from the fire station here last May.

It marked the high point of a dispute between the association and city over costs of the rural fire calls. Looming behind the question of what the association wants to do with its truck is uncertainty over the future of the association itself. It appeared certain the group will have to be disbanded.

SALTCREEK Township officials have "requested" Harry Melvin, president of the Association, to call a meeting in the near future. However, Melvin indicated he will not act immediately on the Saltcreek move, one way or the other.

Asked if he would comply with the request, Melvin said: "It's all up to the boys, and I'm just one of them. I don't know about a meeting. I haven't read the story in the paper yet, but I will. It's up to the boys to decide what they want to do."

Prior to the action by Saltcreek Township, Milton Manson, chairman of Circleville Township board of trustees, said a meeting of the Association was being arranged. However, he admitted Wednesday night, plans for the meeting "fell through somehow." He also confirmed that "some of the other townships" had objected to the meeting, but declined to say which ones.

Obvious conclusion was that the objections had come from Walnut, Jackson, Muhlenberg or Wayne Township officials. Pickaway Township announced plans for a separate firefighting system several weeks ago, and Circleville, Washington and Saltcreek were known to favor a meeting of the Association.

Melvin is chairman of the Muhlenberg Township trustees. Scott Radcliff, chairman of Jackson Township trustees, was a strong supporter of the decision to end the association-city firefighting pact last May.

CHARLES E. Morris Jr., announcing the action taken by Saltcreek Township officials, declared: "We're determined to have a meeting of the Association called. We intend to force it, if we have to do it."

Complicated legal angles apparently cloud ownership of the association's fire truck. No legal source here was willing to say what the next step should be to determine its future, beyond a discussion of the matter in meeting.

Meanwhile, Circleville Town-

ship filed with Pickaway County board of elections a proposed levy to help purchase a new fire truck in cooperation with Washington Township. The levy, one mill for two years, will be placed before voters of Circleville Township in November.

Similar action for a levy, also one mill, was to be taken later Wednesday by Washington Township officials. Voters in the city of Circleville will not ballot on the levy. A Circleville Township fire district has been established to eliminate the city, officials said.

Manson said the proposed levy over two years would raise about $10,000 in Circleville Township and $3,800 in Washington Township, the difference being due to the gap in township valuations.

UNDER A contract now in ef-

ITCH (Scabies) is highly contagious and will continue for life if not stopped. Its sole cause is the itch mite which is immune to ordinary treatment. EXSORA kills the itch mite almost instantly. Only three days EXSORA treatment is required. At All Drug Stores.

fect, a city fire truck will answer calls in either Circleville or Washington township. For each such call, the township that originates the call will pay $50 to the city treasury.

It was recently stressed the $50-per-call provision is intended to hold only during the life of the interim pact. "After the end of the year when we hope to have our new fire truck," Manson said, "we'll get together with the city again and draw up a new agreement."

Oklahomans Quick To 'Observe' Law

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A new law making incompatibility grounds for divorce finds Oklahomans quick to grasp the opportunity.

This is disclosed in the rash of petitions which cite the new grounds, permitting decrees without the lengthy bill of particulars common to such suits.

Why, the new divorce suits are almost friendly, courthouse officials observed.

Studio Shelving 'Flat Movies'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Twentieth Century-Fox will make no more flat-screen movies. It's changing over to exclusive production of Cinema Scope wide-screen films.

A studio spokesman said last night that personnel is being reduced from 2,500 to between 400 and 500.

Annual output of films will be cut from 60 a few years ago, to between 15 and 20, he said.

The Tigers will be seen for the first time under the lights at the CHS field Friday night in the first annual "preview" program, sponsored by the Circleville High School Band Mothers' Group.

$10,350 In Donations Have Been Received By Hospital

Berger Gift Fund Program Being Set Up

Unsolicited Gifts Designated For New Wing Here

Spontaneous contributions totaling $10,350 have been received by the board of governors of Berger hospital for the hospital's new medical and surgical wing, now under construction.

These unsolicited gifts from persons of the community who stepped forward to lend a helping hand were for furnishing of rooms and purchase of equipment for the hospital's new wing.

Donations which have been accepted to date by the hospital board were contributed by the following persons:

To completely furnish four private bedrooms—Mr. A. E. Fissell, in memory of Mrs. Florence Fissell, Dr. and Mrs. R. S. Hosler, Dr. and Mrs. V. D. Kerns and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Noecker.

To completely furnish five semi-private rooms—Mrs. Helen Black Anderson, in memory of Miss Anna E. Black, family of the late Dr. Harry D. Jackson and Mary Jackson in their honor, Berger hospital General Guild, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Valentine and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Replogle.

To completely furnish a four-bed ward—Dr. Clinton G. Stewart, in memory of the late Dr. Dudley V. Courtright.

To completely furnish the office of the administrator of the hospital—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adkins.

These contributions were unsolicited donations to be used for designated projects. Because of the growing interest of individuals, industries, firms, churches, clubs, lodges and societies, the board of governors of Berger hospital have established a Berger Hospital Gift Fund committee to handle these and other donations.

Richard Simkins, Harry W. Heffner and Durward D. Dowden are the members of this committee and will serve in the capacity of agents for the donors.

The board of governors of Berger hospital hope that within a few days they will receive donations from several local industries. The local officials of leading national firms have shown keen interest and cooperation in the Berger hospital enlargement project and have confirmed reports that their companies expect to assist financially.

The receipt of these donations will, in no way, interfere with the donation program to be sponsored by Berger hospital Guilds, which is to be launched Oct. 1.

DETAILS OF this campaign will be announced in the near future by Mrs. John W. Eshelman, chairman of the Berger hospital General Guild, and will afford everyone an opportunity to contribute to one of our most worthy local community projects, that is, to make Berger hospital one of the most complete, modern hospitals in Ohio.

Dowden, chairman of the Berger hospital promotion committee, said that, without the sponsorship of the Berger hospital Guilds, a donation campaign of any size could not be made possible. The details of such a program could not be handled by the board of governors of Berger hospital in addition to their present duties of directing the operating policies of the present hospital and supervising the building and equipping of the new medical and surgical wing.

Newsman Get Fines In Fuss With Judge

CLEVELAND — Common Pleas Judge Joseph H. Silbert late yesterday convicted three members of the Cleveland Press' editorial staff of contempt of court for a picture taken in the judge's courtroom. Their attorneys announced they would appeal.

City Editor Louis Clifford was fined $500 and costs and ordered held in the custody of the sheriff for one hour. Reporter Sam Gaimo was fined $100 and costs. Photographer James Thomas was fined $100, suspended.

However, the sentences were stayed after Atty. Gen. J. Edwards general counsel for the Scripps-Howard Newspapers, announced he would file a notice of appeal. The newsman were released on bond.

At issue was the taking of a photograph of Former Probate Judge Nelson J. Brewer as he was arraigned last Aug. 20 on a charge of embezzlement. Brewer pleaded innocent.

Judge Silbert contended he had told reporter Gaimo on the preceding afternoon no pictures would be allowed. He said he informed Gaimo and another reporter this was because of a section in the Canon of Ethics of the American Bar Association, stating that courtroom pictures should not be permitted.

had no legal effect because it was not a part of the Court Journal, and that "a court can speak only through a journal."

He also contended that there was no obstruction of justice in a "mere click of the camera." He said the Canon of Ethics was not binding on the press, and asserted that the judges of the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court, as a group, had discussed the canon at a meeting earlier in the year, but had failed to adopt it.
